County mulls real estate tax increase

BY STEFANIE BOWMANN

Eastern Shore Post

Northampton County officials are proposing a two-cent real-estate tax hike to make up for revenues that have dropped or are stagnating.

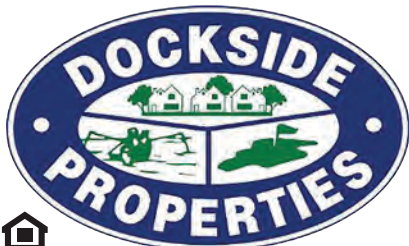

"It's the last thing I want to recommend, but ... I know that people want services that we have to provide, too," said County Administrator Charlie Kolakowski on Tuesday, May 13.

Northampton's current real estate tax rate is 68.5 cents per $100 of assessed value, which will rise to 70.5 cents if supervisors approve the county administrator's recommendation following a June 10 public hearing.

A Northampton resident who owns a $250,000 home would pay $50 more a year in real estate taxes – $1,762.50, up from $1,712.50.

School bus rear-ends truck

An Accomack County school bus driven by a 63-year-old Chincoteague woman rear-ended a truck on Chincoteague Road near Wattsville on Monday, May 12.

State police spokeswoman Michelle Anaya said none of the 30 students on board were injured.

The crash, reported shortly before 3 p.m., happened when the driver of a 2008 Chevrolet truck stopped to turn into a local business. The bus failed to stop for the truck and rear-ended it.

The driver of the truck suffered minor injuries and was transported to Riverside Shore Memorial Hospital.

The bus driver, who was not identified, was issued a summons for following too closely.

noted that “deficient tax revenue” led to an approximate $600,000 gap in the county’s proposed fiscal year 2026 budget.

Kolakowski had originally suggested filling the gap using Northampton’s undesignated fund balance, or rainy day fund, with the expectation that the funds would be replenished over time.

Coker said, “Now the consensus is that may or may not happen,” so the county administrator is proposing a tax increase this year to avoid a “double tax increase” next year.

The decreasing tax revenues contributing to the shortfall include sales taxes, which, as of January, were expected to bring in $2 million, or $150,000 less than in fiscal year 2025.

Transient occupancy taxes, which are collected from temporary lodgings such as hotels and vacation rental homes, were anticipated to generate revenue of $620,000 in Northampton

Tourism-associated revenues are down

■ Transient occupancy taxes, which are collected from temporary lodgings such as hotels and vacation rental homes, is expected to be $130,000 less than last year in Northampton County.

■ Sales tax revenue is expected to be $150,000 less than last year.

■ Board Chairman John Coker said collection of sales, lodging, and meals taxes is “behind plan” for this year.

County at large, or $130,000 less.

The collection of sales, transient occupancy taxes, and meals taxes this year is “behind plan,” Coker said.

There are also other factors at play in declining confidence in Northampton’s ability to balance its revenues and expenditures.

The county is planning to raise its real estate tax collection rate this year from 97% to 98%, but that feat will be difficult to top in the future.

“You can only collect past-due money one time,” Kolakowski added.

The cost of health care for county employees “only went up 4%” this year, but Northampton might not be so “lucky” next year, he said.

Coker also noted that “our capital accounts are depleted now.”

One of the biggest hits to the budget was taken by Northampton County Public Schools, which lost $1 million in state funding due to an increase in the local composite index — a number that represents how much money Virginia expects the county can afford to contribute toward the cost of its public education.

Northampton’s composite index rose 4.6% to 0.5253. Of the public education costs that the county shares with the state, Northampton must pay more than 52.5%.

Rising real estate values due to inflation and housing demand are partly to blame for the increase in the local composite index.

“Prices aren’t going down,” Coker said. Contractors are increasing their prices “to the point where the people are thinking they can’t continue to pay for the house that they’re building,” even in more affluent neighborhoods like Bay Creek and Tower Hill.

Supervisor Dixon Leatherbury said inflation is continuing due to COVID-19-related federal spending from two to four years ago.

Vice Chair Oliver Bennett was concerned about how a tax increase would impact the “elderly and those who may be less fortunate.”

Supervisor Betsy Mapp noted that a real estate tax increase also “translates into hundreds of dollars more for the average farmer.”

“We’ve tried to control spending as much as possible,” Kolakowski said.

“I’d look all the way across the board tonight and say, ‘What can I cut back on in Northampton County?’” Bennett said. “I may be a disliked person, but I’d be looking and let the chips fall where they may.”

“Twenty dollars is a small amount to you and I,” he said to his fellow supervisors. “But there are some ... $20 is a good amount to them.”

ESCC Welcomes New Faculty by Rocxana Velazquez

Professor Kiprop Kibet brings a worldwide viewpoint to the classroom as he completes his first semester teaching at Eastern Shore Community College. Born and raised in Kenya, he arrived in the U.S in August 2018 and initially settled in Idaho before traveling to Virginia. Kiprop teaches Statistics and Geometry in both virtual and in-person settings catering to the needs of a wide variety of students.

Kiprop emphasizes the significance of maintaining student motivation by fostering an engaging and collaborative classroom atmosphere. He elaborated “when students focus and are comfortable, they are more inclined to participate and succeed.”

Combining technology and resources with his lectures helps students stay engaged with the content and comprehend its real-world applicability. “My goal is to pique students’ interest in mathematics by making lessons more interesting and approachable.”

His most important piece of advice to his students is to not fear mathematics. He urges them to tackle the situation with logic and patience, while reminding them that mistakes are part of the learning process.

Kiprop believes that understanding often evolves over time. What appears unclear in class can become clearer after reviewing at home. He reminds students to “understand that constant effort and a positive mindset are key to success in the world of math.”

(Rocxana Velazquez is a student at ESCC and is a work-study intern with our Marketing Dept.)

At the bottom, the college's address and phone number are listed: "Eastern Shore Community College 29316 Lankford Hwy, Melfa, VA 757-789-1720".

Event to Honor Shaeffer and Launch Scholarship

The Eastern Shore Community College Foundation will be hosting a celebration for retiring ESCC President, Dr. Jim Shaeffer on Saturday, May 31st at 6pm, at the E.S. Yacht and Country Club in Melfa. The event will feature cocktails, dinner and program and will serve as a launch for the creation of the Dr. Jim Shaeffer YES! Fund for Student Success.

In 2020, Dr. Shaeffer introduced the YES! (Your Eastern Shore) culture within ESCC. It is based on four pillars: Hospitality, Transparency, Inclusion and Accountability. “YES!” reflects each personal interpretation of what our Eastern Shore is and the motivation and drive behind all that the college does and offers.

The Dr. Jim Shaeffer YES! Fund for Student Success will help his vision to continue to thrive and to support all students, so learners are empowered to enhance the quality of life for themselves and their communities. Tickets for the May 31st event and a variety of support levels are accessible at es.vccs.edu.

Please consider joining us to celebrate Dr. Shaeffer on his retirement and the exciting establishment of this ongoing legacy of the “YES!” vision. Questions can be directed to Patty Kellam, Director of the ESCC Foundation, at 757-789-1749.

ESVA Housing Mission tackles first project in county

ESVA Housing Mission completed its first project in Northampton County on Saturday, May 10, with 13 members of the Pungoteague Ruritan Club working with six ESVA Housing volunteers to build a 32-foot ramp in Eastville.

Starting at 8 a.m., the project was completed by 1 p.m., with some site prep work handled by ESVA Housing Mission the prior day.

The Pungoteague Ruritan Club, founded in 1931 and the 10th oldest Ruritan club in the nation, has long made building wheelchair ramps for low-income families its key service project.

The ESVA Housing Mission, still less than a year old, has additional projects planned in both Accomack and Northampton counties to meet its mission of providing critical home repairs for those in need.

Statistics show that of the 14,152 households in Accomack County, 2,051 are at or below the poverty level. Of the 5,292 residences in Northampton, 853 are at or below the poverty level.

Studies also show that an investment in safe homes has over a 200% return on reduced medical costs from falls and injuries.

Don Taylor, board advisor for the group, said ESVA Housing is looking for a pool of volunteers to help with the construction of ramps or repairs in homes.

Supervision will be provided at the building site to help those with no construction experience. Volunteers can come from civic clubs, churches, schools, individuals, and any other group willing to donate a few hours to help their neighbors.

Rick King, construction supervisor, handles the permit process, the acquisition of materials and tools, and supervising the project.

A generous grant by Perdue helped the organization get off the ground in late 2024 and a $30,000 donation by Taylor Bank earlier this year allowed ESVA Housing Mission to plan approximately 20 projects in 2025.

If interested in participating, contact Donna Smith at dsmith@esaacaa.org or 757-442-9652 or Jennifer Shelton Barnes at jennifer.barnes@rivhs.com or 757-789-5000.

Contributions can be mailed to Treasurer, ESVA Housing, 34 Market St., Onancock, VA 23417.

The Accomack-Northampton Planning District Commission is offering a Shore Strong photo workshop consisting of three sessions: Tuesday, June 3, from 3 to 7 p.m., featuring Ted Shockley, editor of the Eastern Shore Post; Tuesday, July 8, from 3 to 7 p.m., and Tuesday, Aug. 12, from 5 to 7 p.m.

The Aug. 12 session will be an art showcase for the community at the Island Community House.

Participation is free but attendees must be very familiar with Chincoteague, have access to a digital camera or mobile phone with camera, and be able to attend all three sessions.

Participants must register by Wednesday, May 28.

The goal of this project is to provide a platform for local residents to thoughtfully share what they value, propose ways to preserve the things/places they value, and ensure that their voices are heard by local decision makers in the planning process. To do this, participants will:

- Photograph things/places they want to remain 50 years or more from now

- Caption those photos to explain their importance

- Discuss their photos and captions with fellow participants

- Envision practical and sustainable approaches to safely adapt and preserve these things/places

- Host a community showcase event to present their photos, narratives, and visions to the community.

Through this process the ANPDC aims to spark meaningful conversations about what matters most to the community and provide a framework for envisioning a future that retains these values despite a changing landscape. Thoughtful, value-based community conversations are challenging to foster, and the insights they yield are equally hard to gather.

This project seeks to explore and articulate these community values, enabling local planners, elected leaders, and community members to then reflect on them as they develop community-driven strategies for future adaptation and resilience.

SERVING VIRGINIA'S EASTERN SHORE

THE PAPER'S POSITION

Unoccupied homes present an Eastern Shore opportunity

Here's an assignment: In your town or community, conduct an informal count of how many homes are vacant. We're not referring to commercial units — only residential units.

Don't count the ramshackle homes that have gone to seed. Don't count the homes you know are short-term rentals that are occupied during summer weeks by vacationers. Don't count the houses that are listed for sale. And don't look in windows, trespass on property, or do anything creepy.

Just notice and count the number of unoccupied, livable homes. In some towns and communities, it is a startling number.

We understand some of the explanation — an owner died or a foreclosure happened. There is sometimes a short-term churn between outgoing and incoming tenants.

But some homes, inexplicably, remain vacant for years. Certainly this is the right of the owner. However, the vacancy of these otherwise-livable and useful homes causes a community strain.

Think of the workers with good-paying jobs — teachers, police officers, nurses, and so many more — who have such a difficult time finding a place to rent locally. Think of how many more housing units available for purchase that the Eastern Shore needs.

There are all sorts of hazards with leaving a home vacant — deferred maintenance, pest hazards, mold growth, even the threat of vandalism. During tight financial times, it is remarkable to consider people pay real-estate taxes, year after year, on unoccupied homes they own.

Here's another assignment: Let's encourage owners of vacant homes to get them occupied again. It will make a difference in many ways.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Thanking law enforcement during National Police Officers Week

To the editor:

The week of May 11 to 16 has been designated National Police Officers Week, and May 15 was specifically designated as Peace Officer Memorial Day.

Please join me and my office in recognizing the sacrifices made by our local law enforcement each and every day, as well as celebrating their dedication to keeping our communities safe.

We are truly blessed to have the law enforcement that we have here in Northampton County, and indeed, the whole Eastern Shore.

There is not one among them who has anything but the good of the community in their hearts. They expose themselves to the elements, sleep deprivation, and danger on a regular basis, often dealing with the unknown and/or volatile situations at all hours of the day and night.

They are called on to make life-and-death decisions in a split second and then deal with the consequences.

They also have voluntarily subjected themselves to increased, and sometimes unfair, scrutiny from the media. Yet they perform their jobs with a willing heart.

Fishing improving as waters warm

Bill Hall

Local fishing action continues to improve with the warming water temperatures.

Black drum action is now occurring on both sides of the peninsula, from the Chesapeake Bay Bridge-Tunnel all the way up into Maryland waters.

Red drum action continues to become more consistent in the shallows of Pocomoke Sound.

Speckled trout have made an appearance in the shallow grass beds of the Chesapeake Bay.

Upper Shore

Captain Matt Abell, at the Sea Hawk Sports Center, reported that the middle Chesapeake Bay is seeing good action with black and red drum.

The black drum have been concentrated in 12- to 25-foot depths over the oyster rocks in Tangier and Pocomoke sounds. Anglers targeting the “big uglies” have enjoyed success using 6/0 to 8/0 circle hooks on fish finder rigs baited with a big chunk of peeler crab.

The red drum action has been occurring primarily in the shallows along the deeper edges of grass beds and around shallow stump fields. The reds have been hitting peeler and soft crab baits.

Striped bass and speckled trout have been welcome bycatches, taking the same baits in the same areas as the red drum.

Chincoteague

Jimmy Vasiliou, at Captain Steve’s Bait and Tackle, said the Assateague Island surf fishermen enjoyed a great weekend, with catches of red drum, black drum, and stripers.

Kingfish (whiting) numbers are increasing, with the tasty fish hitting baits of squid, shrimp, and Fish Bites on small hooks.

Flounder action was described as “good” in the back bay, but the best flounder action of the week has been coming from the deeper waters of Assateague Channel when light winds and clear water can be found.

Tautog and sheepshead catches have come from over the inshore ocean wrecks.

Wachapreague

Captain Lindsay Paul, aboard the Almost Persuaded, told me that the flounder bite out of Wachapreague continues to be productive during periods of good weather. Most of the flatfish have been caught on Berkley Gulp with live minnows and silversides. Fishing in the warmer waters during the outgoing tide in 2- to 10-foot depths has produced the most consistent action.

Captain Paul said the black drum action off the surf remains “decent,” with the fish hitting peeler and clam baits.

The offshore wrecks have been producing some good black sea bass catches.

Lower Shore

Tyler Nestor, at Oceans East — Eastern Shore, said the flounder action is heating up off Kiptopeke and along the Chesapeake Bay Bridge-Tunnel.

The best action has occurred while drifting with live minnows and strips of squid, as well as jigging with Berkley Gulp and a strip of squid off the bottom.

The Virginia tautog season will soon be coming to a close, but there are plenty of togs out there on the structure for anglers bottom fishing with peeler or hard crabs.

Black drum catches are still being made out of Oyster and off the bridge-tunnel. The larger fish have been coming from Oyster and have been hitting sea clam and peeler baits.

The shop has weighed in several sheepshead that have been caught on the shoals on clam and peeler baits. Catches off the Kiptopeke State Park Pier include large sand mullet (whiting), flounder, puppy drum, and blue crabs.

Jeb Brady, at Bailey’s Bait & Tackle, told me that the black drum fishery has been excellent over the last week on both sides of the peninsula.

The seaside inlets have seen good runs of drum, particularly in the evenings during the tide changes, with the fish taking clam and crab baits.

Lower barrier island surf anglers are catching small black drum on cut crab, along with large red drum and striped bass. On the bayside, the areas around buoys #13 and #16 have produced black drum action during the flood tide.

Nice-sized sheepshead are being taken on crab baits dropped down along the pilings of the bridge-tunnel. The lower bayside beaches have seen some large schools of striped bass, with some fish measuring up to 40 inches in length.

The rockfish have been hitting Mirrolures and top water baits.

Flounder fishing has been picking up along the Ditch and near the bridge-tunnel on cut bait and Gulp combinations.

Catches of small mullet (whiting) and croaker have been reported off the lower bayside piers.

Fences, lights prompt county zoning discussions

BY STEFANIE BOWMANN
Eastern Shore Post

Northampton County supervisors are revisiting the county’s ordinances on lighting and fences in response to a resident’s complaints about glaring lights and barbed wire.

Janet Riese, of Jamesville, said, “I live in a very dark district, on a private road with no ... street lights. It’s very dark, so when you see a light, it’s ... bright.”

She had written to supervisors ahead of their May 13 meeting about an unshielded dock light in her community, which is on from sunset to sunrise, 365 days a year, and is causing a nuisance to her and three other neighbors.

She said the light has an output of 4,700 lumens — the equivalent of approximately 260 watts of incandescent light.

“In our environment, we’re living with quite a bit of glare,” Riese said.

She noted that in Northampton’s 2016 lighting ordinance, a light of more than 160 watts was required to be fully shielded to reduce glare.

However, that requirement was removed when the ordinance was updated in November 2023.

The 2016 lighting ordinance allowed certain lights on private residential properties to be exempt from restrictions if “such fixtures do not cause unsafe glare,” but that language also was deleted.

Riese asked why parts of the ordinance had “disappeared,” reducing it from five pages to three.

“I don’t know,” said Chair John Coker.

“For those of us that have neighbors ... and I do ... lighting can be a pain,” he said. “Some people leave their lights on all night long. It drives me insane.”

Coker said county supervisors will reconsider the ordinance.

Riese noted that the same neighbor also had installed a seven-foot-tall chain-link fence with barbed wire.

Supervisor Betsy Mapp said, “I’d like to see him have to take down the barbed wire. It shouldn’t be in the community.”

County Administrator Charlie Kolakowski presented proposed amendments to Northampton’s fence ordinance:

■ Fences made of barbed wire or salvaged materials, as well as electrified fences, are prohibited in zoning districts that are primarily residential.

■ Fences and walls may not be more than eight feet above adjacent grade. A fence or wall that encloses or projects into a required front yard, or a front or side yard on a street, may not be more than four feet tall.

■ A nonconforming fence or wall may not be enlarged, extended, moved, rebuilt, or replaced. Minor repairs may be made, but only to fence boards. Up to 10% or 30 feet of fence boards, whichever is greater, may be replaced in a two-year period.

■ A zoning permit is required to build a new fence or wall or to repair or replace more than 10% of an existing fence or wall. A permit is not required for a temporary fence or wall, hedges or shrubbery, dog pens, garden fences, or walls or fences used for agriculture or horticulture.

Rail Trail groundbreaking is May 22 in Cape Charles

The groundbreaking for the Eastern Shore Rail Trail is scheduled for Thursday, May 22, at 2 p.m., at an area near Rayfield’s Pharmacy.

Access to the site is through a road beside the former Cape Charles Little League field.

Work began on Monday, April 21, on a paved walking and bicycling trail on the former railroad bed from Cape Charles to Cheriton.

The trail phase under construction could be finished this fall, said Ron Wolff, executive director of the Eastern Shore Rail Trail Foundation, a nonprofit group dedicated to developing the trail.

He said the contract on the roughly five-mile stretch calls for completion in October 2026, but the best-case scenario would see it finished this calendar year.

A feature of the trail is its crossing of U.S. Route 13. There will be a dedicated crossing — with a push-button activation — near the Cape Charles Food Lion for walkers and bicyclists to cross the highway.

The cost of the segment is between $3.2 and $3.5 million, Wolff said.

The 10-foot-wide asphalt trail will originate near Rayfield’s and proceed to an area near the traffic signal at the intersection of Stone Road and the highway, Wolff said.

Then the trail will turn south, running parallel to the highway until it gets to an area in front of the Atlantic Union Bank.

It will cross the highway at the traffic signal near the McDonald’s restaurant at the Food Lion shopping center.

Wolff said the trail will then turn north and run parallel to the highway again before proceeding into Cheriton.

Take just 'one step' toward wellness in May

The journey toward wellness starts with "just one step."

That's the message that American Farm Bureau Federation is amplifying during Mental Health Awareness Month in May. The organization is encouraging farmers to take "just one step" toward supporting their own mental health or helping someone who is struggling.

The reminder comes at a critical time for many farmers, noted Matt Nuckols, Virginia Farm Bureau safety coordinator.

"May is one of the busiest months for almost all agriculture sectors, which means more deadlines, more stress, and less sleep," Nuckols said. "When living a lifestyle where toughness is a necessity, it's easy to miss the effects of stress and anxiety on your body and behavior."

Like checking the oil in tractors or greasing equipment, he encourages farmers to periodically check on their state of mind.

"How are they sleeping? Are they more forgetful or irritable, or having new or increasing physical pains? Acknowledging these and making small changes could prevent more serious problems," Nuckols said.

Having a conversation, going for a walk or drive, taking a few deep breaths, pausing to watch the sunset, or asking for help are steps that can have big impacts on one's mental and physical well-being.

Taking five minutes to look around the field and think about loved ones can be a "powerful redirect" in times of stress, Nuckols noted.

Farmers can access free emotional support through The AgriStress Helpline — available 24 hours a day, 7 days a week. Call or text 833-897-2474 to receive direct emotional support, advice and resources from a trained professional.

Visit the AFBF Farm State of Mind website at FarmStateOfMind.org for crisis hotlines; treatment locators; tips for helping someone in emotional pain; ideas for starting a conversation; and resources for managing stress, anxiety, or depression.

Grants available to support service members, veterans

The Virginia Department of Veterans Services (DVS) is seeking to award $4 million in grants to support Service Member, Veterans, and their Families (SMVF) suicide prevention and opioid addiction services for Fiscal Year 2026.

In 2022 DVS developed the Suicide Prevention and Opioid Addiction Services (SOS) Program to help end the epidemic of SMVF suicide and opioid addiction and was tasked to build federal, state, and local partnerships with profit and nonprofit organizations to accomplish this lifesaving mission.

The SOS program will serve as the steward of these funds and is formally accepting applications through a Request for Applications (RFA) to establish awards for community-based suicide prevention and opioid addiction services in the Commonwealth of Virginia.

"The fight against suicide is a collective effort," said Chuck Zingler, commissioner, Virginia Department of Veterans Services. "DVS is proud to partner with the U.S. Department of Veterans Affairs (VA), other state agencies, and the organizations receiving these valuable grant funds to provide extended resources to support the SMVF community every step of the way."

Grant funds will be used to promote the use of best practices addressing suicide prevention and/or opioid addiction for SMVF in the following categories: women veterans, homeless veterans, justice-involved veterans, caregiver support, and/or financial stability/literacy.

ESCC hosts its first rated chess tourney

The Eastern Shore Community College's student chess club, the Melfa Monarchs, held a tournament at the college, drawing competitors from Maryland and the Tidewater area in addition to locals. The event, co-sponsored by the Eastern Shore Scholastic Chess Association (ESSCA), was the college's first rated chess tournament. In addition to bringing chess players together, the event gave some Melfa Monarchs their first experience in a rated tournament.

Ratings are granted by the United States Chess Federation based on games played under its official rules and directed by a certified tournament director. This event drew 20 participants and was played in a quad format, a round robin in which each of four players plays everybody else. The motive for a quad format is to match players of roughly equal ability.

While many of the players were Melfa Monarchs, others were high school age and younger, and there were adults and seniors from the community as well. "This was truly a community event," said Ralph Lopez, executive director of ESSCA. "Several of the players stated they had been looking for a place to play competitive chess on the Eastern Shore and were excited that this was in their own backyard."

"I was pleased with the turnout," said Christina Duffman, faculty advisor for the Monarchs. "I believe this will be the start of an annual spring tradition."

A benefit of the quad format is that there was not just one winner but five, as there were five quads. Prizes were given for first and second place in each quad.

In Quad One, first place went to Tom Moskios, and Noah Guthrie was second.

In Quad Two, Ralph Lopez earned first place, while second went to Ernest Kibler.

For Quad Three, Matt Thomas took first place, and second was Mark Nuckols.

In Quad Four, first place went to Nicholas Blue, while Kevin Gardner earned second.

In Quad Five, first place was Stephen Gardner, and there was a three-way tie for second that went to James Fonville, Cullen Long, and Jesus Garcia-Lopez.

Eligible applicants must be a for-profit or nonprofit organization or community service provider/organization/locality serving Service Members, Veterans, and their Families (SMVF) in the Commonwealth of Virginia. For all nonprofit organizations, proof of an IRS 501(c)3 designation is required at the time of application.

To be considered for selection, applicants are to submit a complete response to the RFA no later than May 31, at 11:59 p.m. EST.

To be considered for selection, an applicant must register at <https://grants.dvs.virginia.gov/index.do> first to access the grant application.

The Virginia Department of Veterans Services (DVS) is a state government agency with more than 50 locations across the Commonwealth of Virginia. DVS traces its history to 1928 and the establishment of the Virginia War Service Bureau to assist Virginia's World War I veterans. Today, DVS assists veterans and their families in filing claims for federal veterans benefits and provides veterans and family members with connections to services including behavioral health, housing, employment, education, and other programs.

The agency operates long-term care facilities offering in-patient skilled nursing care, dementia/memory care, and short-term rehabilitation for veterans. It also provides an honored final resting place for veterans and their families at three state veterans cemeteries. It operates the Virginia War Memorial, the Commonwealth's tribute to Virginia's men and women who gave the ultimate sacrifice from World War II to the present.

The Eastern Shore of Virginia Community Foundation has made award decisions on a new round of community grants to support nonprofits serving the Eastern Shore.

The spring 2025 grants total $250,000 and will go to seven nonprofit organizations.

“These organizations are working hard to uplift lives through education, housing, the arts, youth engagement, and more,” the foundation stated in an email.

Grants include:

- Eastern Shore Area Agency on Aging/Community Action Agency: $25,000 for HVAC upgrades and support for a new bus for seniors.

- Eastern Shore of Virginia Housing

Mission: $33,000 to purchase and outfit two equipment trailers.

- Foodbank of Southeastern Virginia and the Eastern Shore: $50,000 to purchase a forklift for the Tasley warehouse.

- No Limits Eastern Shore: $25,000 to purchase a new vehicle for client transportation.

- Northampton County Education Foundation: $32,000 to purchase and integrate Lego Spike modules into the existing STEM curriculum at Kiptopeke and Occohannock elementary schools.

Grant applications this spring far surpassed available grant funds. With limited dollars available and many worthy applications, ESVCF’s Board of Directors made thoughtful decisions based on the resources available and anticipated impact, according to the email.

All of its community grants are made possible by generous annual donations of all sizes from supporters and distributions from unrestricted endowed funds created by those who placed their trust in the foundation to meet the evolving needs of our community.

The next round of grant decisions will feature new grant guidelines, which will include seed funding for innovative projects and capacity building grants for smaller nonprofit organizations.

The Eastern Shore of Virginia Community Foundation is a leading community organization supporting nonprofits to develop a thriving Eastern Shore of Virginia.

Rural Health cuts ribbon on Occohannock dental unit

BY TED SHOCKLEY
Eastern Shore Post

Occohannock Elementary School, in Exmore, now has an on-site dental unit thanks to Eastern Shore Rural Health, an arrangement area leaders said was only possible through partnerships and support.

“Today would not be possible without you — a lot of you who are here,” Jeannette Edwards, Rural Health’s chief executive, told a gathering near the dental unit.

“It takes a community to build something like this,” she said.

The unit will be available for all students to have dental care and cleaning. A similar unit at Kiptopeke Elementary opened in 2022.

Students at Northampton High and Middle schools are served by a traveling dental project. Edwards said she hoped someday to have a permanent site at the high and middle school campus.

Dr. Scott Wolpin, Rural Health’s chief dental officer, said dental care is critical to a student’s “health, happiness, and success.”

He added, “School-based dental programs are not just beneficial; they are essential.”

Edwards thanked U.S. Sen. Tim Kaine for federal funding support for the unit. A video congratulatory message from Kaine was broadcast for those in attendance.

She also thanked Delegate Rob Bloxom for his support. Bloxom said he touts Rural Health’s offerings among Richmond colleagues as a model for rural health care.

“We probably have the best world-class care of any rural community in Virginia,” he said.
