Accomack seniors leave their marks

Parking lot Picassos put personality on pavement

BY JIMMY SHOCKLEY
Eastern Shore Post

Before Accomack County high school seniors graduate and leave their mark on the world, the school system allows them to leave their mark on their school parking lots.

The result is a batch of colorful, personalized, original parking spaces created by parking lot Picassos at Arcadia, Chincoteague, and Nandua high schools.

Arcadia High Principal Shaun O'Shea said the artwork is part of a process the school calls "campus culture revitalization."

The goal is to have some fun, combat absenteeism, and try to get students to enjoy school more, he said.

The students were taken aback.

Historic structure to house administrative offices

BY JIMMY SHOCKLEY
Eastern Shore Post

Following years of debate and consideration, Accomack County Public Schools held a groundbreaking ceremony Tuesday, Oct. 7, for the renovation of the historic Accomac school — a creative solution to solve two problems at once.

The project will repurpose the building for use by the school system's administrative employees.

"Today we begin the process of bringing this old school new purpose," said Janet Turner, chair of the Accomack County School Board, at the groundbreaking.

The future of the historic school had been in doubt. The school board considered tearing it down and replacing

LIZ RICHARDSON
FOR DELEGATE

Born and raised on the Eastern Shore, I come from a family of farmers, teachers, watermen, veterans, and first responders.

For over 15 years, I've served communities across the Commonwealth as a farmer advocate, chaplain, nonprofit leader, and educator. Now, I'm running for Delegate to bring a salt-of-the-earth approach to politics.

We deserve leadership that can bring people together and protect our foundations. In my role as a farmer advocate I did the following:

- walked farmers and veterans back from the brink of suicide as a hotline operator
- analyzed business plans to find ways out of financial crisis to save family farms and homes by securing millions of dollars in loans and program assistance
- worked with the Farm Service Agency and members of Congress on both sides of the aisle to improve programs and agricultural policy to make them more efficient
- advocated for farmers' rights when they lost contracts and were left with large amounts of debt
- navigated farmers through federal disaster assistance programs after Hurricane Helene

I've accompanied people through their most difficult moments, whether in the hospital, or in the field, and I remain committed to standing up for the people of District 100 and making sure this remains a viable place to live for generations to come.

Bay scallops surge off Eastern Shore

Virginia's bay scallop population is experiencing an unprecedented resurgence, thanks to years of dedicated restoration work led by the Batten School and VIMS Eastern Shore Laboratory in Wachapreague, officials say.

Once locally extinct due to habitat loss, bay scallops are now multiplying exponentially in the restored eelgrass meadows of the Eastern Shore's southern coastal bays, possibly setting the stage for a future recreational fishery.

"The restoration of bay scallops to their former range along the Virginian Eastern Shore represents a significant societal and ecological achievement," said VIMS ESL Director Richard Snyder.

Importantly for seafood lovers, the new numbers match Florida's minimum population density for a stable population, opening the possibility that Virginians may one day be able to harvest local bay scallops themselves.

Tyson seeks reissuance of waste permit

BY JIMMY SHOCKLEY
Eastern Shore Post

Tyson Foods Inc. has requested the reissuance of a permit to use industrial wastes as fertilizer on almost 3,700 acres of farmland in both Northampton and Accomack counties.

Tyson, which operates a processing and packaging facility in Temperanceville, has a dedicated wastewater facility on the site, as well.

Irena Calos, the communications manager for the Virginia Department of Environmental Quality, said the wastewater facility produces a sludgy material as part of the water treatment process.

"While some wastes can only be safely disposed at specialized facilities, others can be recycled and provide value to agricultural production," said Calos.

This material must be removed as it builds up in Tyson's wastewater lagoons. The two options are to either dispose of it or recycle it for use as fertilizer.

Tyson's residual material contains nitrogen and phosphorus — two major ingredients of agricultural fertilizer.

Calos said farmland that is set to receive the material must have a nutrient management plan, which limits the amount of the material that can be used on crops.

Tyson Foods of Temperanceville currently holds a permit that allows it to use the material as fertilizer.

It has requested a reissuance seeking approval to use the material on more land than previously allotted.

While the permit allows for the use of the water treatment byproduct, it limits its application to protect water quality and human health, Calos said.

The permit also takes into account proximity to anything the material could contaminate, such as dwellings, water sources, and neighboring properties.

The DEQ will evaluate public comments and any requests for public hearing after the comment period for the draft permit closes on Oct. 20.

Following the close of the comment period, the DEQ will determine whether a public hearing will be held based on the number and content of any public hearing requests. Send comments to Brad Morrison at bradley.s.morrison@deq.virginia.gov

Jay Ford named Conservation Champion of the Year

Belle Haven resident Jay Ford, the Chesapeake Bay Foundation's Virginia Policy Manager, received the prestigious Conservation Champion of the Year Award from the Virginia Conservation Network on Oct. 7. VCN recognized Ford for his exceptional accomplishments and leadership in advancing critical environmental policy throughout the Commonwealth.

The Conservation Champion of the Year award is specifically reserved for people who have made a significant accomplishment for water, land conservation, clean energy, land use and transportation, or environmental justice within the last year.

Ford was recognized for his successful legislative advocacy, which has secured substantial victories for Virginia's environment and communities.

"Jay Ford's legislative victories — from securing funds for coastal resilience to farmers for clean water — represent precisely the kind of strategic, high-impact policy leadership this award celebrates," said Mary Rafferty, executive director of the Virginia Conservation Network.

Then they dove in with paint and determination.

"I was a little surprised they let us do this," said Carmela Rosanova, a senior at Chincoteague High.

Rosanova went for a beach theme that includes sand dollars, bubbles, and flowers over a pink background with a Bible verse, Joshua 1:9, in the middle.

She said the verse keeps her calm and level-headed as a volleyball and softball player.

Rosanova plans to attend the University of Virginia or James Madison University next fall to major in biology and later plans to attend medical school.

Steamers, a Chincoteague restaurant, sponsored the $40 fee to paint a parking spot for all Chincoteague High School students who wanted to participate.

Emily Grimm, of Arcadia High School, had been planning her parking spot artwork since last year, when graduating seniors were first given an opportunity to participate.

Grimm wanted her parking spot to represent community while also displaying the school colors of Arcadia.

Grimm's parking lot artwork, assisted by her friend, Melanie Merritt, shows a sun with rays made from handprints that fade from gold to red.

Grimm is originally from California and plans to attend the University of California, Santa Cruz.

Campbell Bays, of Nandua High School, said she had three goals for painting her parking spot.

"I wanted something fun, but I also wanted something that was 'me' and easy," she said.

Bays' parking bay has a base of blue and white stripes that her parents, Cherri and Darrell Bays, helped paint.

The middle of the spot features a star with text reading, "The future is bright and dazzling."

Bays intends to go to college and has applied to "several" in Virginia and North Carolina.

O'Shea said about 10 students painted spots at Arcadia last year, compared to 20 or so for this year.

Eventually, he said he hopes to see the entire parking lot filled with painted spots, as Arcadia allows for the artwork of past students to remain past their graduation.

In an avenue for Accomack County's high school seniors to express themselves and showcase their talent and creativity, they created bright and cheerful art during a busy last year of high school

"Tons of students out there did a wonderful job," he said.

School renovation

it with a much smaller building to serve the same purpose.

The consideration to demolish the school received pushback from residents of Accomac and Accomack County, some of whom attended the school prior to its closure three decades ago.

Many residents of Accomac voiced their opinions with yard signs that read "Save Our School."

Beth Onley, the school board's chief of operations, said the school system has $10 million budgeted for the project.

The existing building measures about 19,000 square feet. The plan for a new building would have cost only about half of that amount.

However, the importance of keeping this historic structure won out.

The timeline for the project is 18 months, putting the completion date around March 2027, barring any setbacks.

The school was dedicated in 1932, originally as Accomac High School. Upon its opening, it was the most modern high school on the Eastern Shore.

In 1953, it became Accomac Elementary School until around 1970, when it changed to Accomac Primary School.

Since the school closed in the mid 1990s, it has been used for storage by the school system.

The school system and school board received praise from residents of Accomac and the town itself after the decision was made to save and repurpose the school.

"Soon it will be transformed into a hub for Accomack County Public Schools," Turner said.

SERVING VIRGINIA'S EASTERN SHORE

THE PAPER'S POSITION

To local-level candidates: Let's hear about your plans

For the most part, national-level political candidates announce their plans during their campaigns. They detail their specific plans to cut taxes, plans to expand services, plans to improve education, plans to rein in spending, and more. The candidates identify problems and explain the policies they would advocate and institute to address those problems.

However, many local-level candidates — think members of the boards of supervisors, school boards, and town councils — identify and express understanding of the problems but are vague or noncommittal when it comes to proposing plans or policies to address them.

The result is plenty of talk but not much substance.

Candidates agree tourism is important (but don't detail how they would grow it). They say rural character is vital (but don't explain how they would preserve it). They say education is paramount (but don't reveal how they plan to improve it). They say agriculture is critical (but don't propose new local policies that would benefit farmers). They say addressing the housing shortfall is essential (but don't discuss concrete ways it can be addressed).

Fortunately, the Eastern Shore has money and mechanisms in place dedicated to growing tourism, preserving rural character, improving education, supporting agriculture, and addressing housing needs. Plans already are in place and good work is being accomplished.

But new ideas are welcome and should be encouraged. Candidates for election or re-election in our towns and counties should have a vision that builds upon the status quo. An election season — even one with uncontested races — should be a feast of ideas, possibilities, and plans.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Re-election committee supports Bloxom

To the editor:

We are reaching out today to share a message about leadership — specifically, the kind of steady, experienced leadership that quietly and consistently delivers results for our region.

For over a decade, Delegate Robert Bloxom has served the people and businesses of the Eastern Shore and the 100th District with integrity, pragmatism, and a deep understanding of both the community and the challenges we face.

In Richmond, he is a respected and an influential voice, not only because of his years of public service, but because he has earned the trust of his colleagues through quiet competence and a results-driven approach.

Perhaps nowhere is his impact more clearly felt than through his role on the House Appropriations Committee, where critical decisions are made about how Virginia invests its resources and taxpayer dollars.

His seniority and rank on that committee have enabled him to advocate effectively for the needs of Accomack and Northampton counties, ensuring that our infrastructure, schools, and economic development projects are not overlooked.

Whether it's securing state support for workforce development, protecting our agricultural and aquacultural industries, supporting the state's efforts in the space industry, or working behind the scenes to ensure that Eastern Shore priorities remain at the table, Delegate Bloxom brings a level of effectiveness that only experience can provide.

As we look toward the next

Servicemen and first responders who died Oct. 6 to Oct. 12

I keep notes on servicemen and first responders who died in the line of duty.

Here are those who have given their lives since 1900, either during military service to our country, as a police officer or first responder in our communities, or in fatal military incidents on the Eastern Shore, from Oct. 6 through 12.

Ted Shockley

There were several Black soldiers from the Eastern Shore of Virginia who died in October 1918 during World War I but whose names are not included on war memorials in Accomack and Northampton counties.

It is difficult to find information about these fallen solders, and their names are sometimes not included on war memorials on the Eastern Shore.

■ U.S. Army Pvt. Thomas Edmonds, 23, died of disease at Camp Lee, Petersburg, on Oct. 6, 1918, during World War II.

Edmonds was a native of Nassawadox, according to his draft registration card, which also lists him as an unmarried farmer.

Edmonds, who was Black, is listed on the Northampton County Veterans Memorial plaque in Eastville.

■ U.S. Army Pvt. Juber Evans, 35, died of disease at Camp Humphreys on Oct. 6, 1918, during World War I.

I have seen information that shows Evans lived both at Davis Wharf and in Cape Charles.

Evans, who records indicate was born in Atlanta, Ga., is listed on the Northampton County Veterans Memorial plaque in Eastville. He was Black.

■ U.S. Army Pvt. Samuel Bailey, 25, of Painter, died of wounds in France on Oct. 7, 1918.

Bailey was part of the 372nd Infantry, 93rd Division. His remains are interred at the Meuse-Argonne American Cemetery and Memorial in France.

He is one of four Black soldiers whose name is on the World War I memorial in Accomac. His name also is on the Parksley war memorial.

■ U.S. Army Pvt. John Henry Smith, 25, of Onancock, died of disease on Oct. 12, 1918, at a military camp in Alexandria.

Smith was survived by a wife and a child, according to his draft registration card. Like several Black soldiers who died of disease while in service to the country, he is not memorialized on World War I plaques in Onancock and Accomac.

■ Herbert Wise, 23, also died of disease in Alexandria. He is listed as Black, but I have not found information about his name and service rank.

His name is not included on plaques in Accomac or Parksley.

First responders

■ Page O. Outten, 71, a charter member of the Cheriton Volunteer Fire Company, died Oct. 8, 1992, after falling ill with an apparent aneurysm while responding to an automobile crash.

Outten was serving as treasurer of the fire company at the time of the incident.

His son, Robben Outten, said Outten was driving a fire truck to the crash when he fell ill.

Outten's grave is in the Cape Charles Cemetery.

■ Milton Eugene Taylor, 34, of Hopeton, a member of the Parksley Volunteer Fire Company, died Oct. 11, 1954, after suffering a heart attack on the way to a massive fire in Nassawadox.

Taylor left behind a wife and three children.

Taylor was described in his obituary as "a highly esteemed citizen of Hopeton," and a large crowd attended his funeral at Hallwood Methodist Church two days later.

His grave is in the Groton Cemetery near Hallwood.

Fallen heroes

Readers who may have information about these or other fallen Eastern Shore military personnel, law enforcement officers, or first responders can send it to Ted Shockley at editor@easternshorepost.com

Medal of Honor

U.S. Army Pvt. Henry G. Costin, 21, of Cape Charles, died Oct. 8, 1918, in France during World War I.

Costin, a native of Maryland whose remains are interred there, is the only Eastern Shore resident I know of who received the military's highest honor — the Medal of Honor.

In 1919, when news of Costin's Medal of Honor award was reported in newspapers around the nation, his address was listed as 615 Mason Ave., Cape Charles.

His award and town of residence also were reported in the weekly Peninsula Enterprise newspaper, which covered the Eastern Shore.

The Evening Sun newspaper of Baltimore reported on March 4, 1919, that Henry Costin "married while on duty with Company H, under Capt. Walter Black, at Cape Charles, Virginia." Costin volunteered to be part of a team that charged into fire from artillery, machine guns, and trench mortars.

"He operated his rifle until he collapsed," his Medal of Honor citation states. "His act resulted in the capture of about 100 prisoners and several machine guns."

The Laurel, Md., armory is named for Costin, as was a World War II liberty ship.

Costin's name is not included on the Cape Charles Veterans War Memorial, the Cape Charles Memorial Library plaque, or the Northampton County Veterans Memorial in Eastville.

Other fallen soldiers

■ U.S. Army Pfc. Estel George Bloxom was 26 years old when he was killed in action during the Meuse-Argonne offensive in France during World War I.

A native of Makemie Park, his remains are interred at the John W. Taylor Memorial Cemetery in Temperanceville.

His name is on memorial plaques in Accomac and Parksley.

■ U.S. Army Corp. Byron Clark Cugler, 21, of Tasley, was killed i action on Oct. 9, 1918, in France during World War I.

Cugler's remains are interred in the Edgehill Cemetery in Accomac near his parents, Sally Francis Lewis Cugler and Samuel J. Cugler. His name is on memorial plaques in Accomac and Parksley.

■ U.S. Army Pvt. Lee Dulin Dennis, 22, of Chincoteague, was killed in action Oct. 9, 1918, during the Meuse-Argonne offensive in France. I was unable to immediately find Dennis' rank.

His remains are interred at the Mechanics Cemetery, Chincoteague. His name is on memorial plaques in Accomac and Parksley.

■ U.S. Army Cpl. Joseph Thomas Phillips, of Keller, died of exposure during the Meuse-Argonne offensive in France on Oct. 11, 1918. He was 31 at the time of his death.

Phillips' remains are interred in Baltimore. There is a memorial marker for Phillips at Hollies Baptist Church Cemetery near Keller.

His name is on memorial plaques in

Having someone at the table who understands our values and our economy and how to effectively advocate for them is not just helpful, it's essential.

Jack Brady

On Oct. 6, 2025, a beautiful fall morning, Mr. Jack Brady, 90, of Oyster, passed away peacefully in the presence of his loving family.

Born and raised in Oyster, he was the son of the late Otho and Ruby Brady and brother of the late Robert Brady.

He spent his entire life on the water he loved so much, learning the tides, the creeks, and many secret spots along the seaside out of Oyster. From a young age, he joined his mother and father on the water, soaking up their knowledge and learning the tips and tricks that would guide him through a lifetime spent fishing, crabbing, clamming, and oystering.

He shared 71 incredible years of marriage with his beloved wife, Hilda. Together they built a life rooted in love, hard work, and family.

He is survived by his devoted daughter, Ellen Tester and her husband, David Tester; his granddaughter, Heather Spence and her husband, Shawn Spence; and two great-grandchildren, Jillian Spence and Porter Spence — his pride and joy. He never missed an event or moment to cheer them on, and they brought him immeasurable happiness.

Mr. Brady

He worked for many years at Bayshore Concrete Products, but his heart always belonged to the sea. As a charter boat captain, he shared his deep knowledge of the water — though he was famously protective of his favorite fishing hot spots. Many fishermen sought out his experience and wisdom, and over the years, he became a respected local figure. His skill, stories, and enduring connection to the water led to him being featured in local books, articles, documentaries, and videos.

He had a lifelong passion for fishing, particularly for tarpon and speckled trout. He caught his first tarpon in 1968, and the excitement of a good catch never left him. His laugh was easy, his stories were memorable, and his loyalty to those he loved was unshakable.

His personality, love, and unwavering dedication to his family will be deeply missed. We like to think that when he crossed over, the tarpon and trout in heaven were already biting — because there's no doubt, he was ready to go fishing.

Funeral services were conducted on Thursday, Oct. 9, at 2 p.m., at Doughty Funeral Home, with Pastor Jeff Conrow officiating. Interment followed at Cape Charles Cemetery.

Rosalie Zegelbone

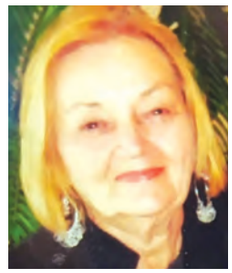
Mrs. Rosalie Marilyn Miller Zegelbone, beloved mother, grandmother, great-grandmother, and friend, passed away peacefully on Sept. 3, 2025, at the age of 92.

Born on June 21, 1933, in Brooklyn, N.Y., Rosalie was the daughter of Abraham and Ida (Golovato) Miller.

She was predeceased by her dear siblings, Reuben Miller and Nora Miller Brodow.

Rosalie spent most of her life in Brooklyn, where she raised her family and built a life rooted in love, laughter, and deep connection.

She married the love of her life, Charles Zegelbone, with whom she shared many cherished years until his passing. Together, they raised two daughters: Nan Zegelbone Arpino (Chris Morgan) and Lisa Zegelbone (Vito Febbraro). Rosalie was a devoted and loving grandmother to Paul Arpino, Dane Arpino, and Elena Febbraro, and a proud great-grandmother to Carra Smith, Serefina Arpino, and Thearan Arpino.



Mrs. Zegelbone

A gifted bookkeeper with a sharp mind for numbers, Rosalie worked for many years at The Workbench and The Algonquin Hotel in New York City. But her talents extended far beyond her professional life.

She was a natural conversationalist with the gift of gab, known for striking up conversations with strangers and keeping in touch with family near and far. Her humor, quick wit, and remarkable memory for names made everyone feel seen and remembered.

In 2020, Rosalie moved to Chesapeake, where she quickly became known and loved as "Miss Rosie." She embraced Southern life with open arms and continued to spread kindness, joy, and a genuine love for people wherever she went.

Rosalie found great joy in telling jokes, reminiscing on family stories, and sharing long phone calls with loved ones. Her presence brought warmth and comfort, and her deep love for her grandchildren and great-grandchildren was evident in every word and action.

A celebration of Rosalie's life will be held on Nov. 1, at 2 p.m. at Doughty Funeral Home, 3117 Main St., Exmore, VA.

In lieu of flowers, donations may be made in Rosalie's honor to the Lustgarten Foundation for Pancreatic Cancer Research, a cause close to the family's heart.

David Denny

Dr. David Roy Denny, 72, of Henry's Point, Accomac, was welcomed into the arms of his Lord and Savior on Sunday, Oct. 5, 2025. In a way most fitting to his life's calling, David was serving in ministry when he was called home — offering compassion, guidance, and peace to a grieving family, just as he had done faithfully for decades.

Dr. Denny

The only son of the late Earl LeeRoy Denny and Willie Mae Branch Denny, David was welcomed into this earthly world on March 21, 1953, at Turner Air Force Base in Albany, Ga. As the child of a military family, he traveled the world with his parents and sisters, living in both Germany and Japan before returning stateside, where he graduated from Gar-Field Senior High School in Woodbridge in 1971.

Answering God's call to ministry, David pursued theological education with steadfast determination. In 1975, he earned his undergraduate degree from Liberty University, during which time he became a founding member of the university's first basketball team, an achievement he always cherished. David continued his studies at New Orleans Baptist Theological Seminary, where he completed a Master of Divinity, and in 1985 he earned a Ph.D. in New Testament Studies.

Dr. Denny's ministry spanned more than four decades and reflected his deep love for the Word of God and for the people of God. He began as a church planter with the Illinois Baptist Convention and went on to lead many churches on the East Coast, faithfully nurturing congregations and shepherding souls with humility and grace. His ministry took him to various places of service, always marked by an unwavering commitment to preaching, teaching, and living out the Gospel. In 2016, he accepted the call to serve as pastor of Drummondtown Baptist Church on the Eastern Shore of Virginia. From his first days there, he felt embraced by the congregation and knew that he had truly found his home in ministry.

A scholar at heart, Dr. Denny was an avid reader and lifelong learner. In addition to his formal theological training, he studied languages with remarkable discipline, becoming well-versed in ancient Hebrew, Greek, and Latin. His dedication to biblical study informed every aspect of his preaching and teaching, leaving behind a testimony of faith that will continue to inspire.

Beyond the pulpit, David was a man of wide-ranging gifts and endless curiosity. He was a talented musician who played piano, guitar, and trumpet. He was also an outdoorsman and craftsman, building oyster cages for his own harvests, tending fruit and nut trees in his yard, kayaking, golfing, fishing, swimming, and delighting in God's creation. An author of many books, a builder, a gardener, and a lover of new technology, there was little he could not do once he set his mind to it.

Though ministry was his calling and scholarship his passion, Dr. Denny was equally devoted to his family. He was a loving husband, father, and grandfather whose patience, kindness, and steady presence guided and blessed his family. His legacy of faith and love will continue to live on in the hearts of his family and all who were blessed to know him.

He is survived by his wife of 52 years, Alice Tyree Denny; his children, Jessica Rose "Jessie" Puglisi and her husband, Philip, and Nathaniel David "Nate" Denny, all of Suffolk, and Early Detection is Key!

Knowing the three components of early detection may save your life or the life of those you love.

Clinical Breast Exam

At age 25, have a clinical breast exam performed by your health care provider every three years, then yearly beginning age 40.

Mammograms

Begin annual screening mammograms at age 40; earlier if you are at high risk due to personal or family history. Tomosynthesis, otherwise known as a 3D mammogram, is encouraged.

Breast Self-Awareness

You know what is normal for your breasts. A change does not always indicate breast cancer. Still, be alert for the following:

- A lump in the breast or under the arm
- Skin changes, including a dimple, redness, or thickening
- Change in breast shape or size
- Nipple discharge
- Scaling or redness of the nipple and/or areola
- Nipple retraction or deviation
- New breast pain

If you notice any of these signs or something that doesn't look or feel quite right, notify your health care provider immediately.

The earlier breast cancer is detected, the easier it is to treat.

One in eight women will be diagnosed with breast cancer in their lifetime. Screenings help find cancer early, before you have any signs or symptoms.

Surf anglers catching big red drum

Bill Hall

The highlight of local angling this week has been the run of large red drum in our barrier island surf.

Large red drum have been caught and released along the whole seaside, from the Maryland/Virginia state line all the way down to Smith Island.

Chip Illian caught and released this 48-inch red drum in the Assateague Island surf on Sunday.

Upper Shore

Fishing in the shallows continues to disappoint for most anglers. Small, undersized speckled trout provide the bulk of the action, but hope remains eternal for that one strike for a keeper-sized fish.

Puppy drum numbers continue to provide concern, as I only heard from one angler who was lucky enough to hook one in the shallows of Pocomoke Sound. Unfortunately, it broke off before he could get it in the net. On the plus side, the first small rockfish of the season are beginning to arrive.

Chincoteague

Anglers fishing in the surf on Assateague Island have had a good week catching and releasing big red drum. Several of the fish have been large enough to qualify for Virginia Saltwater Fishing Tournament citation awards. Some anglers have experienced multiple same day red drum catch and releases.

Small speckled trout have been hitting soft plastics suspended under popping corks along the marshes surrounding Chincoteague. Some autumn flounder catches have been occurring inside of Chincoteague Bay, Chincoteague Channel, and adjacent to the marina.

Offshore action has consisted primarily of black sea bass on the wrecks, with deep droppers boating blue-lined and golden tilefish in the deep. A crew of anglers fishing aboard the Hull Yeah boated golden tilefish up to 36 pounds on a trip earlier this week.

Wachapreague

Captain Lindsay Paul, aboard the Almost Persuaded, said the flounder fishing out of Wachapreague "continues to be pretty good." He added that the tidal stage is not as important as just finding clean, clear water. The majority of the flatfish are being caught on Berkley Gulp combined with a live minnow or silverside. The recent most productive color combinations have been white/orange with fire tiger, as well as white/chartreuse. The majority of the fish continue to be on the small side, with a few keepers in the mix.

The ocean wrecks are still producing good numbers of black sea bass and some flounder. Captain Paul had not received any reports of offshore blue water action.

Lower Shore

Jeb Brady, at Bailey's Bait & Tackle, told me that the autumn fishing season has been off to a slow start.

Lower shore anglers have been targeting shallow water species but have not encountered a whole lot of action.

A few speckled trout catches have been reported along the lower bayside creeks by anglers casting Mirrolures, though the bite has been anything but steady.

Some schoolie-sized striped bass have started to show up in the evenings under lights inside the bayside creeks. Anglers are still finding some sheepshead along the Chesapeake Bay Bridge-Tunnel, but the bite seems to be slowing down as the waters clear.

On the bright side, black sea bass fishing has been very good on the ocean wrecks when the conditions are calm enough to allow anglers access.

The writer was the first Eastern Shore resident to achieve Virginia Saltwater Master Angler status. He has been named Virginia Saltwater Angler of the Year and Virginia Saltwater Release Angler of the Year. He has won numerous Virginia Press Association awards for his columns.

CAPE CHARLES

‘Mind Mysteries’ comes to Historic Palace Theatre Oct. 11; pianist is Nov. 1

Prepare to be amazed as Dan Gaffney, renowned mind reader, brings his captivating show “Mind Mysteries” to the Historic Palace Theatre in Cape Charles on Saturday, Oct. 11. Showtime is 7:30 p.m.

“Mind Mysteries” is a unique and interactive experience that will leave audiences questioning the very nature of reality, Arts Enter Cape Charles said in a prepared release.

Gaffney expertly blends psychology, suggestion, and showmanship to delve into the depths of the human mind, revealing thoughts, predicting actions, and demonstrating the extraordinary power of intuition.

“I’m thrilled to bring ‘Mind Mysteries’ to Cape Charles,” said Gaffney. “The historic atmosphere of the Palace Theater creates the perfect setting for a truly immersive and unforgettable experience. Guests should be prepared to participate — their thoughts may just become part of the show.”

On Saturday, Nov. 1, Boston-based pianist and photographer Michael Leidig takes the stage and blends jazz, classical, and pop in mellifluous, impressionistic medleys with a program called “Coldplay in the Clouds.”

Leidig will be playing on the Grand Steinway piano as cloud images are projected on the big screen and create an immersive experience.

“Send Me No Flowers,” a comedy in three acts, opens Friday, Nov. 21, and continues Saturday, Nov. 22, and Sunday, Nov. 23.

Directed by Clelia Cardano Sheppard, it is set in the 1960s and takes place in the suburban ranch house of Judy and George Kimball, a happily married couple in their 40s. Unfortunately, Judy is having to deal with George’s constant fears of being sick, which makes him a true hypochondriac.

The play evolves into a chaotic mess of misunderstandings and assumptions, creating havoc in their lives and the lives of all around them.

The cast of eight includes two women and six men.

There are several surprise film segments that offer a different dimension to the stage play, bringing an interesting layer to the fabric of the three-act play.

Tickets are available at www.artsentercapecharles.org

Winners announced in Ag Fair contests

The Eastern Shore Chamber of Commerce had a beautiful fall day to host its annual Eastern Shore Agricultural Fair on Saturday, Oct. 4, at the former Northampton County Community Center in Machipongo.

With over 50 vendors, multiple active and submitted competitions, the Chincoteague Pony Drill Team demonstration, and an antique tractor display from the Peninsula Tractor Organization, there was something for everyone to see.

In the nine years since the event started, this was the largest so far, with over 1,600 attendees.

The antique tractor parade, which has been a fan favorite for years, was led by the Northampton High School Marching Band.

Northampton County farmer Ray Newman drove the lead tractor for the Peninsula Tractor Organization in a 1938 Model RC Case IH tractor, the same tractor model and year that he learned to drive as a child.

At 93 years old, Newman still farms 3,000 acres and is the oldest active farmer on the Eastern Shore of Virginia.

Virginia Cooperative Extension made a strong showing, with ANR and 4-H agents leading a variety of engaging competitions and educational activities.

The ever-popular large prize pumpkins and sweet potato decorating contest stole the show again this year.

Vegetable baskets and soybean and corn competitions showcased the region's bounty.

New additions included floral arrangements, honey entries, and the 4-H ham contest that added a savory twist to the lineup.

Active competitions were exciting as well, drawing large spectator crowds.

The skillet throwing competition started off with the Northampton High School Shore Bots Robotics Team robot throwing/chucking the inaugural frisbees on the course.

PUBLIC NOTICE – ENVIRONMENTAL PERMIT

PURPOSE OF NOTICE: To seek public comment on a draft permit from the Department of Environmental Quality (DEQ) for the withdrawal of ground water in Northampton County, Virginia.

PUBLIC COMMENT PERIOD: October 10, 2025 to November 10, 2025

PERMIT NAME: Ground Water Withdrawal Permit issued by DEQ pursuant to applicable water laws and regulations

APPLICANT NAME, ADDRESS AND PERMIT NUMBER: Del Monte Fresh Production, Inc.; 15141 Finney Mason Dr., Bloxom, VA 23308; GWI000362

NAME AND LOCATION OF WATER WITHDRAWAL: Outten Farm; Wilsonia Neck Dr., Parcels #48-1-A, 48-1-B, 48-A-20 and 48-A-20A, Machipongo, VA 23405

PROJECT DESCRIPTION: Del Monte Fresh Production, Inc. has applied for a reissuance of a permit for agricultural use. The permit would authorize the applicant to withdraw a maximum of 8,399,000 gallons per year and 5,474,000 gallons per month from the Upper Yorktown-Eastover aquifer. The ground water withdrawal will support crop irrigation and farm operations. The top of the Upper Yorktown-Eastover aquifer at the proposed withdrawal site was determined to be 115 feet below land surface. An aquifer is a body of rock or layer of sediment in the ground in which ground water is stored and transported. DEQ has made a tentative decision to issue the permit. The draft permit can be viewed at https://www.deq.virginia.gov/permits/public-notices/water/water-withdrawal

AFFECTED AREA: The radial distance from the wells to where computer modeling predicts the aquifer may experience one foot of drawdown due to the withdrawal is illustrated on a map that can be viewed in the draft permit linked above.

HOW TO COMMENT AND/OR REQUEST A PUBLIC HEARING: DEQ accepts comments and requests for public hearing by hand-delivery, e-mail, or postal mail. All comments and requests must be in writing and be received by DEQ during the comment period. Submittals must include the names, mailing addresses or email addresses of the commenter/requester and of all persons represented by the commenter/requester. A request for public hearing must also include: 1) The reason why a public hearing is requested. 2) A brief, informal statement regarding the nature and extent of the interest of the requester or of those represented by the requester, including how and to what extent such interest would be directly and adversely affected by the permit. 3) Specific references, where possible, to terms and conditions of the permit with suggested revisions. A public hearing may be held, including another comment period, if public response is significant, based on individual requests for a public hearing, and there are substantial, disputed issues relevant to the permit.

CONTACT FOR PUBLIC COMMENTS, DOCUMENT REQUESTS AND ADDITIONAL INFORMATION: Nicole Reungoat; DEQ Central Office, P.O. Box 1105, Richmond, VA, 23218; Phone: 804-698-4192; E-mail: nicole.reungoat@deq.virginia.gov. The public may review the draft permit and application at the DEQ office named above by appointment or may request copies of the documents from the contact person listed above.

The Accomack-Northampton Regional Housing Authority and the Eastern Shore of Virginia Housing Alliance are preparing to implement housing improvement programs within Accomack and Northampton counties: the Indoor Plumbing Rehabilitation Program and the Eastern Shore of Virginia Rural Homeownership Rehabilitation Program, both of which will use federal HOME Funds. a gallon of this.

You can get the Eastern Shore Post mailed to you. An annual subscription costs $160. That's about $3.07 per week — less than the price of one gallon of gasoline. And while one gallon of gas in your pickup truck lasts 20 miles, the Eastern Shore Post lasts all week. Of course, it will take several days to get to your mailbox. But you won't miss an issue.
