Rural Health reflects on a half-century of growth

Shore's healthcare system grows from one office to 13

BY TED SHOCKLEY
Eastern Shore Post

Dr. Art Fournier, the first physician Eastern Shore Rural Health ever hired, remembers well the organization's humble beginnings.

It was 1976 and what was then called Accomack Rural Health had two doctors, two nurses, two business staff, and a director.

It rented the former F.C. Ruediger Inc. produce office in downtown Onley — the building is known to many as the office of the late chiropractor Len Bundick.

Fournier, who left in 1978, made a career in medicine and academia at the University of Miami, and moved back to the Eastern Shore a dozen years ago, said he always wanted to be a physician in an underserved area.

"I thought it was the highest calling of our profession," he said. "I loved caring

Eastern Shore immigration crackdown continues

School systems release statements; rally scheduled

BY TED SHOCKLEY
Eastern Shore Post

Federal immigration agents continued a crackdown this week on people living in the United States illegally as eyewitnesses posted images and videos on social media of ICE agents stopping vehicles on Accomack County roads and detaining individuals.

Leaders in the Hispanic community, speaking anonymously to prevent drawing attention to themselves, also said immigrants who are U.S. citizens or who have legal U.S. residency are afraid to be seen in public because they might be mistakenly detained or treated roughly.

One Hispanic community leader declined to be interviewed because of what she said was a virulent social media backlash against the Hispanic community in the wake of local operations by U.S. Immigration and Customs Enforcement.

"Unfortunately, much of the attention that followed became very negative and brought out comments and reactions from local individuals and even businesses that, in my opinion, took away from the purpose of informing and supporting the families who are being impacted," she wrote in a message to the Eastern Shore Post.

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 10, 2026
PROJECTED SPRING CLEAN UP DATE MAY 8, 2027

The Accomack County Department of Public Works is pleased to announce the countywide "Fall Clean-Up" to be held on Saturday October 10, 2026. In an effort to encourage citizens of Accomack to remove unsightly refuse from their yards, homes, and communities, the Accomack County Board of Supervisors will waive tipping fees at the North Landfill and South Transfer Station for residential waste and recyclable materials brought in on this day. The waiver will also be open to non-residents possessing an Accomack County Solid Waste Decal. Commercial for hire waste haulers will be required to pay standard tipping fees.

Landfills will be open on Saturday, October 10, 2026 from 8:30 am to 4:00 pm to accept residential garbage, yard waste, and construction/demolition debris. The landfill will also accept the following recyclable materials:

- Tires (car and small truck only "LIMIT" 12 per person/day)
- Used Motor Oil, Scrap Metal, and car and truck batteries.

Recycling materials, such as plastic bottles, milk jugs, detergent bottles, any #1 or #2 plastics, newspapers, magazines, catalogs, junk mail, telephone books, cereal boxes, metal and aluminum cans, may be recycled at any of the County's 7 Convenience/Recycling Centers "FREE" year round.

Landfills and Convenience Centers will not accept materials deemed to be hazardous, such as: Paint, Pesticides, Biological hazards, asbestos, and heavy metals. Please check with the attendants at these sites as to where and how to dispose of hazardous materials.

The Department of Solid Waste looks forward to working with the citizens of Accomack County on this program and encourages everyone to mark their calendars for the Spring Clean Up - the second Saturday of May every year! A projected date for next spring is Saturday, May 8, 2027. For additional information, please contact the Public Works Department in Accomac at (757) 787-1468.

Two dead in suspected murder-suicide

A Pocomoke man and woman were found dead in an apparent murder-suicide on Sept. 7, according to Maryland State Police.

Christine Wells, 67, and Robert Dehart, 66, were found dead in Wells' home on Driving Creek Road in Pocomoke City shortly before 7:30 p.m. after police arrived to conduct a welfare check.

Wells' death has been ruled as a homicide by the Office of the Chief Medical Examiner in Baltimore.

Dehart was found with what police believe to be a self-inflicted gunshot wound.

Wells was acting as Dehart's caretaker at the time of the incident and the two had previously been in a relationship, according to police.

The investigation is ongoing to determine the sequence of events, according to Maryland State Police.

Supervisors discuss allowing rifles for recreational hunting

BY JIMMY SHOCKLEY
Eastern Shore Post

The Northampton County Board of Supervisors on Tuesday, Sept. 8, considered whether laws should be changed to allow hunting with rifles within the county.

Supervisor Jon Dempster broached the subject. Accomack County allows hunters to use rifles for hunting, but the only firearms Northampton County allows for hunting are shotguns and muzzleloaders.

No decision was made at the meeting to allow rifles. Supervisors and members of the public who spoke were divided on the suggestion.

Kyle Sturgis, chairman of the Northampton County Agricultural Committee, said rifles already are allowed to be used by farmers and landowners who acquire a permit to kill deer that are causing crop damage.

Sturgis said that according to the state Department of Wildlife Resources, only 15 of Virginia's 95 counties do not have a rifle season.

As for user safety, a DWR representative told Sturgis that the most common cause of hunting injuries is tree stand falls.

Sturgis said the agricultural committee recommends making rifles more suited to Eastern Shore hunting by mandating straight wall cartridges be used, rather than bottleneck cartridges.

Straight wall cartridges are only accurate to about 200 to 300 yards away, Sturgis said, which solves the concern of bullets traveling too far. Straight wall cartridges are still more accurate than a muzzleloader, he said.

Rifles also have the benefit of being able to fire shots in quick succession, unlike a muzzleloader, which is a single-shot firearm that requires a lengthier process to reload.

Several people spoke unfavorably about allowing rifles for hunting.

Supervisor Betsy Mapp said that she hears hunters shooting from her house and was concerned over them having longer-range weapons.

Northampton County Sheriff David Doughty said it would likely place additional strain on personnel resources to enforce the new rules, in part because allowing rifles would likely mean more people would be hunting in the county.

Doughty also said shooting from an elevated position like a tree stand — about 15 to 20 feet in the air — would not be as much of a concern because a rifle round would typically not travel farther than its intended target because of the downward trajectory of the shot.

Concerns were also raised about Northampton County not having vast woodland, minimal space separating hunting areas from residences, and rogue hunters not completely adhering to laws.

Supervisors will have a representative from the DWR come to do a presentation at a future meeting to help the board come to a decision.

Rural Health

Now, 50 years after its humble beginnings in Onley, Eastern Shore Rural Health is a community powerhouse — 71% of the Eastern Shore’s population are Rural Health clients.

But the goal remains the same as it did in 1976, said Jeannette Edwards, its chief executive officer.

That goal is more than a job — it is a duty.

“To work for Eastern Shore Rural Health, you have to be mission driven,” said Edwards, emphasizing that all patients are priorities, no matter their background or station in life.

“Everybody who walks in the door gets treated the same way,” she said. “We don’t care if you live under the bridge or own the bridge, we treat everyone equally.”

Edwards, who has been with Rural Health for 29 years and has served as its chief executive for the last four years, calls the organization a “home-grown success story.”

Today, it has 13 locations, more than 360 employees, and an annual budget of $52 million.

The growth is based on community needs. “For 50 years, when we’ve seen a need in our community, we’ve worked to fill it,” Edwards said.

That began when the first federal grant was written in 1975 with a goal to improve local healthcare.

Through the years, health centers opened from Chincoteague Island to Cheriton. Dental facilities were added and an express care facility was opened in Onley — the state’s only accredited express care operated by a federally qualified health center.

In recent years, brand-new centers that are as functional as they are attractive have been constructed.

Today, Rural Health offers medical, dental, and behavioral health services, express care, and pharmacy services, and it staffs the only pediatricians on the Eastern Shore of Virginia.

Edwards said the organization’s focus on caring reminds her of “the way medicine used to be.”

“You’ve got to look out for each other,” she said of practicing healthcare in a rural community. In some cases, providing more than just healthcare is in order.

“I could tell you some stories that would bring you to tears,” she said.

Edwards credits Rural Health’s volunteer board of directors for its vision and guidance through the years.

“They’re very involved,” she said. “They’re extremely active.”

Edwards said the growth will continue as Rural Health works to meet community needs.

“We have a visionary foundation, but it is all based on what our community and the people need.”

Fournier recalls many of Rural Health’s bedrock employees through the years — people like Carol Reinert and Nancy Stern, who he said had “an incredible vision” for the organization.

His career goal to medically serve the underserved is shared by the employees at Rural Health, of which he now serves as a board director, a half century after serving as its first physician.

Knowing patients is critical, he said.

“You can’t just do a job in medicine by knowing medicine,” he said. “You’ve got to know everything about the people you are trying to help.”

The chaotic social media mix of ICE traffic stops, support for those impacted, and a foment of sentiment against undocumented immigrants took place as the school year began Tuesday, Sept. 8, in Accomack County.

ICE agents were documented on the Eastern Shore on Sept. 1. Accomack County Public Schools Superintendent Gennifer Miller, under pressure from a social media campaign questioning the schools system's ICE response, released a Sept. 9 statement encouraging parents to keep emergency contact information at schools updated.

"I understand that recent activity on the Eastern Shore has created uncertainty and worry for some of our families, and I want you to know that we take those concerns seriously," Miller wrote.

Miller and Northampton Superintendent Lisa Martin said federal officials must have court orders or subpoenas to access records or students.

"Outside agencies, including U.S. Immigration and Customs Enforcement, cannot patrol or access school grounds without proper legal documentation and explicit NCPS approval," said Martin, who sent a Sept. 3 letter to parents addressing ICE activity.

It is not immediately known how many people have been arrested during Eastern Shore ICE operations. An ICE media relations office did not immediately answer an emailed request for information this week.

Accomack County Sheriff Todd Wessells confirmed last week that ICE agents were in the area. Northampton County Sheriff David Doughty said on Sept. 8 that ICE had not yet begun operations in the county but it was expected. Others said they have seen ICE agents in Northampton.

The sheriffs said their agencies do not assist ICE operations. Wessells and Doughty said they were not briefed on how long ICE would be on the Eastern Shore or any specifics about their operations.

Hispanic leaders said initiatives have begun to get food and other needed items to those afraid to venture out.

What was billed as a "peaceful protest" was held Thursday, Sept. 10, at 6:30 p.m., at the traffic light near the CVS pharmacy in Onley.

"This is about community, unity, and making our voices heard peacefully. No violence, no hate, and no confrontation — just neighbors standing together and supporting one another," said Nathaly Perez, its apparent organizer, in a Facebook post.

PATRIOT DAY

WE WILL Never Forget

Weighing the reproductive rights ballot question

Another election is upon us and the most important decisions for voters in the 100th District will be on the three proposed amendments to the Virginia constitution.

My next three reports will take these amendments and try to educate readers in a nonpartisan way on what you will be voting on.

The first constitutional question is on abortion access in Virginia.

In 2022, the Supreme Court ruled that Roe v. Wade overstepped its authority and that the issue of abortion access was to be returned to the states.

This created chaos, with some states rushing to limit abortion while others rushed to loosen older restrictions that had suddenly become law.

In Virginia, the current law is basically the result of Roe v. Wade litigation over the last 40 years.

Delegate Rob Bloxom

To proceed with an abortion in the third trimester, it requires three doctors to confer and agree that the health of the mother is in jeopardy or the fetus is not viable.

It also requires parental consent if the procedure is to be performed on a minor below the age of 16.

The current amendment is motivated by a fear that abortion policy could swing radically after each election.

However, instead of enshrining current Virginia law (or the current law with slight modifications), it proposes more sweeping changes.

Ballot language

The issue on the ballot will read:
Question: Should the Constitution of Virginia be amended to (i) protect the freedom to make personal decisions about prenatal care, childbirth, postpartum care, birth control, abortion, miscarriage management, and fertility care; (ii) protect doctors, nurses, and patients from being punished for these decisions; and (iii) allow for restrictions on access to abortion during the third trimester of pregnancy except when the patient's health is at risk or the pregnancy cannot survive?

If this question passes, Virginia's Constitution will be amended in the following way:
Article I, Bill of Rights:
Section 11-A. Fundamental right to reproductive freedom.
That every individual has the fundamental right to reproductive freedom, including the ability to make and carry out decisions relating to one's own prenatal care, childbirth, postpartum care, contraception, abortion care, miscarriage management, and fertility care.
An individual's right to reproductive freedom shall not be, directly or indirectly, denied, burdened, or infringed upon unless justified by a compelling state interest achieved by the least restrictive means.

Notwithstanding the above, the Commonwealth may regulate the provision of abortion care in the third trimester, provided that in no circumstance shall the Commonwealth prohibit an abortion (i) that in the professional judgment of a physician is medically indicated to protect the life or physical or mental health of the pregnant individual or (ii) when in the professional judgment of a physician the fetus is not viable.

The Commonwealth shall not discriminate in the protection or enforcement of this fundamental right.

The Commonwealth shall not penalize, prosecute, or otherwise take adverse action against an individual based on such individual's own exercise of this fundamental right or such individual's own actual, potential, perceived, or alleged pregnancy outcomes, including miscarriage, stillbirth, or abortion. The Commonwealth shall not penalize, prosecute, or otherwise take adverse action against any individual for aiding or assisting another individual in exercising such other individual's right to reproductive freedom with such other individual's voluntary consent.

For the purposes of this section, a state interest is compelling only if it is for the limited purpose of maintaining or improving the health of an individual seeking care, consistent with accepted clinical standards of care and evidence-based medicine, and does not infringe on that individual's autonomous decision making.

This section shall be self-executing. Any provision of this section held invalid shall be severable from the remaining portions of the section.

Issue is procedural

My main issue with this amendment is procedural rather than substantive.

In my view, the description on the ballot is oversimplified and misleading.

The amendment is poorly written and ambiguous in multiple places and, if passed, will inevitably require a judge to fill in the gaps.

This litigation is both costly and unnecessary, as the legislature could instead write a clearer, less ambiguous statute, or instead, enshrine the current law, which has already been litigated ad nauseum.

The policy changes are also worth noting. The amendment lowers the threshold from three doctors to one, and it includes mental health as a reason that a third trimester abortion can proceed.

It is also silent on any standards of care or medical expertise that the providers of these abortions must possess. It says nothing about parental consent.

As written, the legal protections offered to anyone involved, doctors or otherwise, are extremely broad and do not provide exceptions for any misconduct, malpractice, or reckless behavior.

Every place of ambiguity or silence will need to be litigated. The last line of the amendment, about each line's severability, was added to ensure that a judge striking down part of the amendment would not strike down all of it.

The proposed amendment, as written, would also be in conflict with parts of the Code of Virginia. When in conflict, the state constitution overrules state code.

Whatever your views are on the subject at hand, I wanted to make sure everyone had a chance to read the Constitutional question and the proposed amendment for themselves and to better understand the implications of the proposed changes.

Whether your views are on one end of the spectrum or the other, make sure to vote on Nov. 3.

SERVING VIRGINIA'S EASTERN SHORE

THE PAPER'S POSITION

Twenty-five years later, our grief and mourning continue

Give yourself some time to grieve, mourn, and remember on Friday, Sept. 11, 2026, a quarter-century after the heinous attacks on the United States — none of them altogether far from the Eastern Shore — that changed the world and us all.

Unfortunately, we know that respectful grieving and genuine mourning is largely absent in our fast-paced, self-centered modern life. (Heaven forbid that our personal social media fixations on external approval and acceptance be postponed even for a day to allow us time to think about this tragedy, consider the lives lost and families changed, and act with deference and reverence. Instead, we fritter away our time on social media posting photos of our vacations and yard parties, liking photos of vacations and yard parties posted by others, and shouting opinions and disagreements without resolution.)

But mourning is exactly what we should be doing, 25 years later. Little other than solemnity, remembrance, and understandable anger are appropriate on a day when almost 3,000 people were killed here on American soil, a short drive away from here, by murderous zealots.

To crow this week about one's relatively good fortune or good life is to disrespect those who fell 1,000 feet from the Twin Towers rather than be burned to death. To complain about one's relatively bad fortune is much the same because the sheer horror and tragedy of the day were incomparable.

The Sept. 11, 2001, attacks and the response should always leave us mournful and moved.

We are moved by the responders, hundreds of whom died, others of whom suffered from physical maladies and psychological trauma. We are moved by those who were bright lights on the darkest of days. Let stories of their sacrifice be never overcome by the lapse of time.

We are mournful about the incalculable loss our country and its people sustained during this vicious attack.

We shall always remember. And on Sept. 11 of this year and all others, let that remembrance be top of mind and in our hearts fully.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Vote yes on amendment that restores voting rights for felons

To the editor:

As Americans, we all prize our freedoms and our rights. Just as importantly, we embrace the notion of second chances, of having the opportunity to begin again, even after we have done wrong — maybe even especially after we've done wrong.

Who among us has not been grateful for the chance to start over?

We Americans are also firm believers in justice, and that includes appropriate consequences for those who have made poor choices.

Sometimes the consequence is as (relatively) light as increased insurance rates after one too many speeding tickets. Sometimes it can be as serious as incarceration for illegal or criminal activity.

These consequences can include the loss of certain freedoms and rights, whether temporary or long-term.

But once we've faced those consequences — once we've paid the price and/or done the time — we ought to have our old freedoms and rights restored. To get our lives back. To start anew.

According to the Brennan Center for Justice, Virginia is one of only three states that permanently ban convicted felons from ever voting again, even after their release.

In Virginia, it doesn't matter if you've paid your dues as a felon. When it comes to voting rights for felons, there are currently no second chances or fresh starts.

This November, Virginians can right that longstanding wrong. The ballot will include a proposed amendment to the state constitution to restore the right to vote to felons upon their release — again, after justice has been served, and when the person is simply seeking to regain his or her voice as a rightful citizen in a free society.

Do you believe in second chances? If so, please join me in voting yes on this amendment.

Adult education and family literacy week is Sept. 13 to 19

BY DIANNE DAWSON
Guest columnist

Did you know that families play a key role in supporting and encouraging the development of literacy skills in children and adults?

Adult Education and Family Literacy Week, which runs Sept. 13 to 19, brings attention to literacy and the need to help those whose reading skills are not well-developed.

Literacy, in its most basic form, is the ability to read, to understand what was read, and to write.

When adults can't do this, their poor reading skills impact the quality of their life and limit opportunities available to them.

People with poor reading skills may have difficulty:

- Filling out forms, including job applications (especially online)

- Getting better-paying jobs or qualifying for a raise or promotion
- Helping children with homework
- Passing tests that would allow them to pursue joining the military or to obtain a GED

- Understanding doctor's notes or instructions after a healthcare appointment or hospital discharge

- Reading instructions on products or equipment, including safety warnings, alerts, and hazards

- Reading daily life information, including road signs, food labels, prescription labels, and more.

Everyday tasks can become frustrating and trying to hide one's lack of reading skill from family and friends can make life stressful.

Unfortunately, adults with poor reading skills may be too embarrassed or ashamed to seek help.

It takes courage to ask for help, to participate in private, free tutoring to improve one's reading skills, and to stick with it if it gets challenging.

Poor reading skills don't just affect the individual, they can affect the whole community.

Here's how you can help:

- Become a volunteer tutor. The Eastern Shore Literacy Council offers free training for tutors. Call 757-789-1761 for more information.

- Participate with your child in the Northampton Reads program, which encourages all members of families of elementary school children to read a book together each semester. This is a cross-generation program. For more information, call Susan Camden, NCPS Division Literacy coordinator, 757-678-5151.

- Share resources with a friend, family member, or neighbor who has confided in you. Be sensitive in bringing up the subject if you aren't sure but want to help. The ESLC works confidentially with those who wish to improve their skills.

- Support your family members or friends when they seek help. They may need your help with transportation, childcare, or general support when things seem difficult.

- Make a donation to support the work of the ESLC by visiting their website at shoreliteracy.org

Let's encourage people to seek help and applaud those who do.

It takes courage to raise your hand and ask for help. Let's be proud of those who do and support them in any way that we can.

Adult Education and Family Literacy Week is the perfect time to get started.

Affordable housing, rural preservation are not competing goals

To the editor:
Northampton County needs more affordable housing. There is little question about that.

The question is how we meet that need while protecting the farmland, open space, and rural character that make our county special.

The proposed town edge residential, or TE-R, zoning amendment gives us an opportunity to ask an important question: How much housing can we add within the communities we already have before expanding development into the countryside?

Other rural communities are taking this approach.

In Maquoketa, Iowa, a vacant

2.3-acre parcel within the town was transformed into 10 affordable homes for first-time buyers and downsizers, arranged around shared green space.

In Shenandoah County, officials are exploring accessory dwelling units and "missing middle" housing — including small detached homes and carriage-house conversions — to increase housing choices while preserving rural character.

Vermont communities are also promoting "gentle infill"— duplexes, townhouses, courtyard apartments, and other modest housing on underused land within established communities.

These examples show that affordable housing and rural preservation do not have to be competing goals.

There is an important difference between density and sprawl.

A duplex on an existing street, an accessory dwelling unit behind an existing home, converting an existing building to apartments, and a small cottage court on an underused parcel are all density.

Clearing another large tract of open land and extending development outward is something different.

Northampton County should consider an infill-first housing strategy. We should identify vacant lots and underused properties, encourage appropriate ADUs and small-scale multifamily housing, consider cottage courts and clustered development, encourage renovation of dilapidated homes using tax incentives and deed restrictions, and look for existing buildings that could be converted to housing.

This approach also makes better use of roads, utilities, and other infrastructure we have already paid for.

This is not an argument against growth. It is an argument for growing smarter.

Before expanding development at the edges of our towns, let's determine how much housing we can create within the communities we already have.

Northampton's farmland and rural landscape are irreplaceable. Once developed, they cannot simply be recreated. The decisions we make about housing today will influence the character of the county for decades.

Let's build the housing Northampton needs while protecting the land and character that make this county worth calling home. Let's build the housing Northampton needs — but let's look inward before we expand outward.

Affordable housing and rural preservation do not have to be competing goals. With thoughtful planning, we can achieve both.

PROPOSED CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENTS:

BALLOT QUESTION 1

Question: Should the Constitution of Virginia be amended to (i) protect the freedom to make personal decisions about prenatal care, childbirth, postpartum care, birth control, abortion, miscarriage management, and fertility care; (ii) protect doctors, nurses, and patients from being punished for these decisions; and (iii) allow for restrictions on access to abortion during the third trimester of pregnancy except when the patient's health is at risk or the pregnancy cannot survive?

BALLOT QUESTION 2

Question: Should the Constitution of Virginia be amended to (i) remove the ban on same-sex marriage; (ii) affirm that two adults may marry regardless of sex, gender, or race; and (iii) require all legally valid marriages to be treated equally under the law?

BALLOT QUESTION 3

Question: Should the Constitution of Virginia be amended (i) to provide for the fundamental right to vote in the Commonwealth, (ii) to revise the qualifications of voters so that a person convicted of a felony is not entitled to vote during his period of incarceration but is automatically invested with the right to vote upon release from incarceration, and (iii) to update the existing prohibition on voting by persons found to be mentally incompetent to instead apply to persons who have been found to lack the capacity to understand the act of voting?

States Constitution during this month's annual observance.

The DAR initiated the observance of this foundational document of national governance in 1955, when the service organization petitioned the U.S. Congress to dedicate Sept. 17–23 of each year to the commemoration of Constitution Week.

Congress adopted the resolution, and on Aug. 2, 1956, President Dwight D. Eisenhower signed it into Public Law #915.

The celebration's goals are threefold: to encourage the study of the historical events that led to the framing of the Constitution in September 1787; to remind the public that the Constitution is the basis of America's great heritage and the foundation for its way of life; and to emphasize U.S. citizens' responsibility to protect, defend, and preserve the U.S. Constitution.

"DAR members enthusiastically promote the annual celebration of Constitution Week in communities across the country by erecting community displays, sponsoring municipal proclamations, ringing bells, and staging programs to raise awareness of the Constitution's protections and importance," said DAR President General Ginnie Sebastian Storage. "As we continue to celebrate America's 250th anniversary through 2026, we encourage all citizens to join us in understanding this powerful document that is so important to American history and to reflect on the impact the Constitution has had on the lives of American citizens past, present, and future."

This year's Constitution Week occurs following the 250th anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence on July 4, 1776, and during DAR's Month of Service initiative. DAR Members are giving their time and effort to support the many events associated with Constitution Week, building a greater understanding in their local communities of the importance of this founding document.

One of the largest patriotic women's organizations in the world, DAR has nearly 190,000 members in approximately 3,000 chapters across the country and several foreign countries. DAR members promote historic preservation, education, and patriotism via commemorative events, scholarships, and educational initiatives, citizenship programs, service to veterans, meaningful community service, and more. OBITUARIES

Mike Avery

Mr. William Michael “Mike” Avery passed away suddenly on July 10, 2026, at the age of 77.

Born in Dover, Del., and raised in Salisbury, Md., Mike found his permanent home in Central Florida after moving to Cocoa Beach in the mid-1970s.

A remarkably smart and compassionate professional, he worked as a CRNA for over 30 years, dedicating his career to caring for others along the coast and in the Orlando area.

Mike was a genuine character known for his fiery spirit and an incredible sense of humor. He was exceptionally friendly and outgoing — the kind of person who would happily speak to anyone and always had an amusing story ready to share. Those who knew him best will remember him as profoundly kind and giving. His generous and selfless nature truly touched everyone he met.

An adventurous soul, Mike’s love of travel took him on frequent journeys across the United States and Europe, as well as on many beloved cruises through the Caribbean. He took great pleasure in his annual family gathering at Emerald Isle, N.C. His favorite memories from these trips were so often centered around the wonderful food he enjoyed along the way.

Closer to home, Mike was a devoted animal lover. Throughout his life, he was the proud pet parent to many dogs and cats. His loving heart will be deeply missed by his most recently rescued companions: Nora, the cat, and his dogs, Oliver, Reggie, and Sadie.

Mike is survived by his loving partner and spouse of 37 years, Dennis Brandstetter. He also leaves behind a close-knit family, including his in-laws: Louis and Mary Brandstetter, Susan Nixon and Virginia Lasoski-Nepa, and Richard Brandstetter, and his many nieces, nephews, and cousins.

He was predeceased by his parents, Ernestine Bloxom Avery and William Edward Avery.

An interment service will be held at his family plot in Parksley Cemetery, Parksley, on Wednesday, Sept. 16, at 11 a.m., with the Rev. Dr. Benita Harris officiating.

Assisting with services is Williams-Parksley Funeral Home, www.williamsfuneralhomes.com

Dicky Hines

Mr. Richard “Dicky” Cecil Hines, 81, of Lanexa, passed away peacefully at Hospice House in Williamsburg on Aug. 31, 2026.

He was born on Jan. 3, 1945, in Nasawadox, to Harry Cecil and Elizabeth Belote Hines.

Dicky was a man of many talents and passions. He retired from the phone company after an impressive 43 years of service, but retirement was never about slowing down. It gave him more time to pursue the things he loved and to create, explore, and enjoy life on his own terms.

Dicky was an accomplished woodturner and was a former member and president of the Richmond Woodturners Association. He created beautiful pieces that reflected his remarkable skill, patience, and creativity. His work earned recognition far and beyond his own workshop. He had pieces featured in the gift shops of several museums and galleries, including the Virginia Museum of Fine Arts and the Virginia History Museum in Richmond, as well as the gift shop at Monticello in Charlottesville. His hands could take an ordinary piece of wood and transform it into something extraordinary.

Dicky also had a deep appreciation for nature. He served as president of the Richmond Bonsai Society, sharing his knowledge and passion with others. He was an avid bass fisherman and enjoyed the art of tying his own flies.

And then there were motorcycles. Dicky loved riding, especially his beloved Big Dog Chopper. He had an independent spirit and a love of adventure that was evident in everything he did.

Above all, Dicky was a beloved husband, father, grandfather, brother, and friend. He will be remembered not only for his many accomplishments, but for the stories he told, the knowledge he shared, the things he created with his own hands, and the memories he made with the people who loved him.

He is survived by his devoted wife, Ruth Doyne Hines; his daughter, Ami Jo Weigartz (Michael), of Quinton; his grandson, Payton Pasipanki (Jenny), of Yorktown; and his great-grandson Beckett Hines Pasipanki, of Yorktown, who carries his family name into the next generation. He is also survived by his stepgrandsons, Dylan Weigartz, of Virginia Beach, Cole Weigartz, of Bloomington, Ind., and Bryce Weigartz, of Bethesda, Md. Additionally, Dicky is survived by his brother, Tommy Hines (Amy Kay), of Accomac; his nephews, Scott Hines (Emily), of Exmore, and Will Hines (Vera), of Quinby; and his nieces, Kelly Antrim, of Pungoteague, Anna Tanner (Zach), of Onancock, and Laura Schake (Chris), of Oakland, Ore.; as well as a number of great-nephews and great-nieces.

In his later years, Dicky faced the challenges of Alzheimer’s disease. Although the disease took much from him, it could never erase the impact of his life or the love shared by his family and friends.

Dicky was a craftsman who created beauty with his hands, a fisherman who found peace on the water, a bonsai enthusiast who understood the value of patience, a motorcycle rider who loved the freedom of the open road, and a devoted husband, father, grandfather, brother, and friend.

His hands may be still, but everything he created — and everyone he loved — will carry a piece of him forward. He will be deeply missed and forever loved.

Funeral services will be private.

The family requests memorial gifts to Hospice House of Williamsburg, 4445 Powhatan Parkway, Williamsburg, VA 23188.

Jessica Morris

Ms. Jessica Rose Morris, 37, of Accomack County, left this world far too soon on Aug. 23, 2026, leaving behind a lifetime of memories and a lasting light in the hearts of all who had the privilege of knowing her.

Jessica, born on Aug. 9, 1989, was a beautiful soul whose presence could brighten even the darkest of days. She was full of light, laughter, warmth, and compassion. Her smile was contagious, and her infectious laughter had a way of bringing joy to those around her. She never needed a reason to care for others because helping people was simply who she was.

Jessica dedicated much of her life to helping others. She gave freely of her time, her heart, and her kindness, always willing to lend a hand, offer encouragement, or simply be there for someone in need. She touched countless lives through her generosity and compassion, often asking for nothing in return.

Though her time here was far too short, the love Jessica gave will not be forgotten. Her memory will live on through the people she helped, the laughter she shared, the lives she touched, and the love she left behind. Jessica’s passing is an unimaginable loss to her family, friends, and community. While there are no words that can truly ease the pain of losing someone so special, those who knew Jessica can take comfort in knowing that the light she carried continues to shine through the many lives she touched.

Jessica was preceded in death by her beloved grandmother and grandfather, Sandra and Edward, and her eternal best friend, Jordan.

Jessica is survived by her daughter, Dakota; her parents, Mark and Elizabeth; two sisters, Crystal and Emma, and a plethora of lifelong friends, all who will miss her dearly.

In lieu of flowers, donations can be made to Visiting Angels Senior Home Care in honor of Jessica's dedication to helping others throughout her life: Visiting Angels, Senior Homecare, 17 Roosevelt Blvd., Marmora NJ 08223. Memorial services will be private and information will be disseminated.

May Jessica Rose Morris rest peacefully, knowing she was deeply loved, greatly appreciated, and will never be forgotten.

"Some people come into our lives and leave footprints on our hearts. Jessica left an entire trail of light."

Clarence Bowen

The Rev. Clarence W. Bowen Jr., 89, of Exmore, passed away peacefully on Saturday, Aug. 29, 2026, at home.

He was born in Brunswick, Ga., to the late Clarence W. Bowen Sr. and the late Willa Strayer Bowen. Clarence was predeceased by two younger brothers, Grady and Patrick.

Clarence graduated from Glynn Academy in Brunswick and Virginia Wesleyan College in Norfolk. He proudly served in the U.S. Navy for 20 years. After his retirement from the Navy, he entered the ministry in the United Methodist Church, where he served as a pastor for 43 years. He retired from the ministry in 2020.

Clarence is survived by his beloved wife of 55 years, the Rev. Sallye Hayman Bowen; a daughter, Kelley Drummond Gaskill Spohn (Phillip); two grandchildren, Rachael Testerman (Rob), of Kill Devil Hills, N.C., and Joshua Drummond (Brandi), of Exmore; five great-grandsons, Dylan Testerman, Mason Drummond, Jase Drummond, Ashton Drummond, and William Jones II.

Clarence became known in the family as "Tonitz" when his granddaughter, Rachael, at the age of 3, tried to pronounce "Clarence" and it came out as "Tonitz."

"C.B." loved to bring joy to others. He had a great sense of humor and easily made other people laugh.

His family and friends shall miss him.

To honor his wishes, there will be no funeral service.

Memory tributes may be shared at www.williamsfuneralhomes.com

Arrangements were made by the Williams-Onancock Funeral Home.

Bob Miller

Mr. Robert "Bob" Carl Miller, 89, of Snow Hill, Md., passed away peacefully surrounded by the love of his family. He will be remembered as a devoted husband, loving father and grandfather, faithful servant of Christ, and a man whose quiet strength and steady example touched the lives of many.

Bob was born in Reading, Pa., to Bertha (née Krommes) and Earl Miller. His life's vocation was banking, a profession he pursued with diligence and integrity. He also proudly served his country in the U.S. Army and was stationed in Germany as a finance clerk. Following his military service, Bob continued his career in banking and retired from the First National Bank of Leesport, Pa., in 1999.

The greatest joy of Bob's life was his family. He was married to his beloved wife, Loretta Miller, for 60 years. Together they built a life marked by love, faith, commitment, and countless memories.

He is survived by Loretta; his two sons, Craig (Rachael) Miller and Eric (Stephanie) Miller; 10 grandchildren; and five great-grandchildren. He is also survived by his brother, William (Patricia) Miller; his sisters, Mary Jane Kauffman and Cynthia (Robert) Raiger; and numerous nieces and nephews.

Bob was a devoted follower of Jesus Christ. His faith was not simply something he professed — it was a life he lived. For more than 40 years, he faithfully served his church in a variety of roles, including Sunday School teacher, worship leader, deacon, and church treasurer. He loved the Lord and sought to serve Him faithfully, using his gifts to encourage others and strengthen the church. His faithfulness, humility, and willingness to serve provided a lasting example to his family and to those who knew him.

Outside of his work and church service, Bob enjoyed the simple blessings of life. He loved traveling, singing, gardening, and above all, spending time with his family. Whether working in the garden, singing, traveling with those he loved, or simply enjoying time together, Bob found great joy in the people and experiences God had placed in his life.

Bob's legacy will not be measured only by the years he lived, but by the lives he influenced and the faith he passed on to those who follow him. He leaves behind a family who loved him deeply and a Christian testimony built over nearly nine decades of faithful living.

His family takes comfort in knowing that Bob's faith has become sight and that he is now in the presence of the Savior he faithfully followed.

"Well done, good and faithful servant." — Matthew 25:23

A funeral service will be held on Tuesday, Sept. 15, at 2 p.m. from the Chincoteague Church of God, with Pastor Kevin Stanley officiating.

The family will receive friends one hour prior to the service at the church.

Interment will follow on Wednesday, Sept. 16, at Berks Memorial Gardens, 201 Evansville Road, Fleetwood, PA 19522.

In lieu of flowers, those wishing to honor Bob's memory are encouraged to make a contribution to The Gideons International or Church by the Beach in Chincoteague, organizations that reflect his lifelong commitment to the Gospel of Jesus Christ. Flowers are also gratefully accepted as an expression of remembrance and sympathy.

The family would like to thank all those who have prayed for, encouraged, and loved Bob and his family throughout the years. His life was a gift, his faith was an example, and his memory will be cherished by all who knew him.

Elodie Fish

Mrs. Elodie Clark Fish, 93, of Chincoteague, passed away peacefully and went to be with the Lord on Sept. 5, 2026.

She was born on Oct. 8, 1932, on Chincoteague Island to the late Wilmer and Virginia Clark.

Mrs. Fish

Elodie was preceded in death by her beloved husband of 49 years, Walter Russell Fish; her sons, Douglas Fish and Wilmer Russell Fish; her great-granddog, Seal Montross; her brother, Raymond Clark; and her sister, June Robinson.

She is survived by her granddaughter, Stephanie Montross (Chris), of Chincoteague; her great-granddog, Sailor Montross; her daughter-in-law, Joan Fish; her brother, Arnold Clark (Angel), of Wallops Island; and her sister, Arlene Wilgus (Dill), of Chincoteague; as well as a nephew, several nieces, and many cousins.

Elodie was a devoted member of Union Baptist Church in Chincoteague. She also dedicated more than 52 years of service to the Ladies Auxiliary of the Chincoteague Volunteer Fire Company, serving in many different roles throughout the years. Her commitment to the auxiliary and the Chincoteague community was a true reflection of her generous and caring spirit.

For many years, Elodie could be found faithfully working the french fry stand at the annual Volunteer Firemen's Carnival. She also spent countless hours preparing and serving the many delicious dinners hosted by the Auxiliary. Her dedication, hard work, and warm presence will be fondly remembered by all who knew her.

Elodie will be deeply missed by her family, friends, and the many people whose lives she touched throughout her long and meaningful life.

Funeral services were held at 2 p.m. on Thursday, Sept. 10, at Union Baptist Church on Chincoteague Island.

In lieu of flowers, donations may be made to the Chincoteague Volunteer Fire Company, P.O. Box 691, Chincoteague Island, VA 23336, or to Eastern Shore SPCA, P.O. Box 164, Onley, VA 23418

Arrangements were entrusted to Salyer Funeral Home, Inc., on Chincoteague Island. Condolences may be shared online at www.salyerfh.com

Faye Foster

Mrs. Ida “Faye” Foster, 87, of Parksley, was welcomed into the loving arms of her Lord and Savior on Saturday, Sept. 5, 2026.

Born June 19, 1939, in Saxis, she was the daughter of the late Weston James Evans and Nellie Elizabeth Taylor Evans.

Throughout her life, Faye’s greatest priorities were her faith and her family. She was the kind of mother and grandmother every child should have — loving, devoted, dependable, and always there.

Her life was deeply intertwined with that of her beloved husband, Charles Donald “Don” Foster, whom she met in Pocomoke City in the spring of 1956. After a short courtship, Faye and Don knew they had found their forever and were married on Aug. 12, 1956. Together, they began a 68-year love story that would carry them through a lifetime of faith, family, service, travel, and countless cherished memories.

Their early years together were spent in Faye’s hometown of Saxis, where they raised their children and became active in Saxis United Methodist Church. Their faith was central to their family and their lives together. Don served as a Sunday School teacher and youth leader, and Faye helped plan and organize youth trips and activities.

In 1976, they settled in Parksley and joined Grace United Methodist Church, where Faye lent her talents to fundraisers and church events, particularly enjoying the annual Christmas in July celebration. Their faith was not simply something they professed; it was something they lived, shared, and passed on to those around them.

Faye was the kind of woman who made a house a home. She kept an immaculate home, beautifully and thoughtfully decorated, and took great pride in creating a welcoming place for her family.

She was always the first to volunteer for a school event — although, truth be told, her children usually volunteered her first — and she did so with genuine delight.

Faye was also a talented seamstress. She lovingly made clothes for her children as they were growing up, and her homemade Halloween costumes were unrivaled. She enjoyed quilting and made dozens over the years, each one reflecting the patience, creativity, and care she brought to so many things in her life.

She also enjoyed bowling and could play a mean round. She spent many years in a bowling league with Don.

But perhaps Faye’s greatest gift was simply showing up for the people she loved. She never missed an opportunity to be there for her grandchildren. No matter how far they had to travel, she and Don attended sporting events, Grandparents’ Day, graduations, and countless other milestones.

Nearly every year, they delighted their grandchildren with a surprise spring break trip, creating memories that would last a lifetime. Faye and Don continued to “show up” for their grandchildren and great-grandchildren for as long as their health allowed. Their presence was a constant reminder to their family of how deeply they were loved.

Faye was predeceased by her husband of 68 years, Charles Donald “Don” Foster, and her brother, Arnold Evans.

She leaves to cherish her memory her children, Faith Foster Sturgis and her husband, Sonny, of Hacksneck, and Charles Donald “Chuck” Foster Jr. and his wife, Page, of Crisfield, Md.; her grandchildren, Whitney Elizabeth Phillips (Brooks), James “Weston” Foster (Marie), Tinsley Evans Foster, Michelle Sturgis Williams (Burley), Calvin “Lee” Sturgis III (Lori); her great-grandchildren, Talin and Leila Phillips, Logan and Cooper Sturgis, and Ryan Williams; her sister-in-law, Maria Evans; her nieces, Joy Bardinelli and Sandee Whyte; and many dear friends.

Funeral services will be held at Grace United Methodist Church on Sunday, Sept. 13, at 2 p.m., with the Rev. Bill McClung officiating. The family will gather for private interment at the Parksley Cemetery.

In lieu of flowers, contributions in Faye’s memory may be made to Grace UMC, P.O. Box 156, Parksley, VA 23421.

Memory tributes may be shared at www.williamsfuneralhomes.com

Fearless: Burrell takes the field with the boys

BY MARK MORING
Eastern Shore Post

One of the scariest plays for a football wide receiver is to run a route across the middle of the field, through the heart of the defense, and to go up for a catch, knowing you're going to get hit hard.

But Corrin Burrell, a junior wide receiver at Nandua, is good with that.

"Honestly, I don't mind getting hit," Burrell says. "And I don't fumble."

Pretty impressive for the only girl playing football on the Eastern Shore. It's Burrell's fourth year in the sport and her first on the varsity team.

"She's fearless," says head coach Trahern Vinnie. "She has no problem mixing it up with the boys. She also plays safety for the same reason: She will stand in front of any player and deliver a hit."

Burrell doesn't see much playing time, but she's OK with that, too.

"I don't mind because the other players are bigger than me," says the 5-foot-6 Burrell. "I'm not discouraged at all because I really like my team, I like football, and I like watching football."

That attitude makes her a great teammate — and a favorite with the coaches.

"Her work ethic is wonderful," says Vinnie. "She never complains and will tell the boys that they need to stop complaining. And when asked to do anything, she responds with, 'I'll do whatever you ask.'"

Burrell says she's always been that way.

"When you complain, you don't really get anywhere fixing the thing you're complaining about," she says. "If you don't like to run, instead of complaining about it, just get better at running."

Vinnie says the male players are fine with a girl on the team.

"The boys take it very well," he says. "They treat her like any other player, and she fully expects us to treat her no differently."

"They're cool about it," Burrell says of her teammates. "It's like having a team full of big brothers, honestly. No one's ever said anything about me being a girl or singled me out in any way."

Asked if opponents ever trash talk her, Burrell smiles. "A lot of times they can't even tell I'm a girl underneath my helmet and pads. They probably just think I'm a short guy."

The only time the gender difference comes up is finding a place to change into her uniform. At home, she just uses the girls locker room. But for away games, she has to get creative.

"I have changed in such random places," she says. "Athletic directors' offices, weight rooms, a shed, and even the team bus!"

Burrell is one of Nandua's most well-rounded athletes. In the winter, she plays basketball, her best and favorite sport; she made first team all-district as a sophomore. In the spring, it's on to the softball field, where she's one of Nandua's top hitters.

She gets her athleticism from her mom, Jennifer Burrell, who played basketball and soccer in high school. The whole family is into sports. Younger brother Charlie, a 6th grader, loves basketball. And little sister Jordan, 4, is showing promise as a possible gymnast.

The family lives in Painter. Charles Burrell, her father, is a combat systems engineer at Wallops Island, while her mom is a naval architect in Norfolk.

Burrell wants to go into the Navy and is applying to the U.S. Naval Academy next year. She has a 3.7 GPA, is in the Beta Club, and is interested in studying oceanography or meteorology, "but I'm still not sure."

But for now, it's the gridiron with the boys. She shares a favorite game memory:

"Last year, I was playing linebacker, and I was trying to get their running back," she says. "This guy comes out of nowhere and blindsides me, and I flew like five feet through the air and landed on the ground."

So why's that a good memory?

"He got a penalty for blocking in the back," she says, smiling. "So we got 15 yards out of it."

Touché.

201 take on Onancock Bay Challenge

This week, Matt Abell, of Sea Hawk Sports Center, told me, “You might say the Chesapeake is enjoying the same old song and dance. The good news is there’s a big drum keeping the tempo.”

Don McGavock

The southern bay has produced some world class bull reds around the sloughs and shoals off the Nassawadox Creek area. There have also been spottail sightings on the reefs from Occohannock down to the Cell.

Abell also reported that along with the reds there have been sharks, blues, cobia, and even a tarpon on B.W. James’ boat. He also reminded me that the Maryland striped bass season opened Sept. 1.

Captain Kenny Louderback, Fish Freaks Sportfishing, agreed that “huge red drum are coming down the bay and are starting to stack up on structure and the bridge.” He also said that there is good fishing for flounder, sheepshead, Spanish mackerel, and blues in the lower bay right now.

Offshore, flounder, seabass, triggerfish, jacks, tilefish, and black belly rosefish are being caught.

Tyler Nestor, of Oceans East — Eastern Shore, said, “Bull reds are the go-to catch right now. They are being caught around the fourth island (of the Chesapeake Bay Bridge-Tunnel) and the high rise.” Nestor also recommends sight casting for spot and croaker with live eels and bucktails. Kiptopeke pier has been good for spot and croaker.

Captain Lindsay Paul, on the Almost Persuaded, said there are lots of flounder, with some seabass and a few mahi. “Few puppy drum had been spotted,” he said, which is hopefully a good sign.

How about the iconic speckled trout? There has been an obvious shortage of them this summer. Nestor reported last week that there were specks in the creeks and shallows in the far south. Ed Murdy was catching fingerling trout in Onancock when he landed the ladyfish. Captain Reed, of Reed and Reel, actually caught some specks up to 15 inches in the shallow bays near Chincoteague.

This all set the stage for the 2026 Onancock Bay Challenge. Two hundred anglers went out Saturday morning to look for the elusive speckled trout and seven other species of fish. The tournament rules required that only fish 19 inches and longer be brought to the weigh-in.

Three of the most successful speck anglers on the Eastern Shore found the prize. Drake Greer landed a 2.75-pounder in Hunting Creek. Anna Yunker got a 2.65-pound beauty in Onancock Creek, and Ray Willett got a 2.6-pound speckled trout, also in Onancock Creek.

So much for the “no speckled trout” rumor.

The 2026 Onancock Bay Challenge enjoyed the greatest number of entries ever, with 151 adults and 50 youths (15 and under). Despite the threat of bad weather and reports of no fish, 201 anglers still believed, still fished, and then stood in the rain to collect their prizes.

In other local tournament news, Captain Steve’s annual croaker tournament was a “big success.”

Ten-year-old Cruz held to the lead with his 1.2-pound croaker. Brady won second place. Karter and Silas won third and fourth places.

For the Firebirds (0-5), Jaden Clark served well, Jamaya Abbott was strong at the net, and Kinsley Palmer set the ball well.

Arcadia shut out

On Friday, Sept. 4, Arcadia lost, 39-0, at Randolph Henry. The Firebirds fell to 0-2. No stats were reported.

Chincoteague beaten

On Friday, Sept. 4, Chincoteague fell, 40-14, to visiting Blessed Sacrament-Huguenot in 8-man football.

The Ponies kept it close in the first half, trailing 19-14 at halftime, but the Knights poured it on in the second half.

For Chincoteague (1-1), JDarius Davis threw for 131 yards and two touchdowns, both to Braedyn Ayres, who caught four passes for 56 yards. Camaury Davis led the Ponies in rushing with 33 yards and added 54 receiving yards. Davis added 26 yards running. Makoa and Mikah Busquets led the defense with six tackles each, while Jakai Simon had five tackles (three for loss), including a sack, and Travis Johnson had four tackles and an interception.

Northampton cancels

On Friday, Sept. 4, Northampton’s home game against Washington High School was canceled due to inclement weather. The Yellow Jackets (0-1) now have three straight road games before returning home on Oct. 2 against Middlesex.

Vikings fall to 0-3

On Friday, Sept. 4, Broadwater Academy dropped a 60-18 decision at Greenbrier Christian.

On the bright side for the Vikings (0-3), Nico Remers threw for 211 yards and three touchdowns, all to Eli Destro on scores of 65, 75, and 66 yards. Toni Sulemana led the defense with nine tackles and a sack.

Shore sees continued growth in visitor spending

According to the Virginia Tourism Corporation, tourism in Virginia generated a record-high $36.2 billion in visitor spending in 2025. Visitor spending increased 3.1%, or $1.1 billion, over the previous year, marking the fourth consecutive year of growth in visitor spending.

Visitor spending for the Eastern Shore of Virginia reached $267 million, a 2.1% change over 2024. Tourism supported 1,857 jobs and generated $10.7 million in local tax revenue.

Virginia welcomed a record 46.6 million domestic and international overnight visitors, marking an increase of nearly one million visitors and the second consecutive year of record visitation. Visitors spent $99 million per day in Virginia, up from $96 million the previous year, with dining, recreation, and other experience-based spending fueling much of that growth as travelers continued to prioritize meaningful travel experiences.

Tourism directly generated more than $2.6 billion in state and local tax revenue over the previous year. Including tourism's full ripple effect across Virginia's economy, visitors saved the average Virginia household $1,020 in state and local taxes while helping fund schools, public safety, transportation, and other essential local services. Virginia's tourism industry directly supported nearly 232,000 jobs, an increase of more than 2,700 jobs over the previous year, and generated $10.6 billion in wages and salaries for Virginians.

Leisure travel remained the primary driver of Virginia's tourism growth, accounting for 90% of overnight visitation as travelers increasingly sought high-value destinations closer to home.

That trend helped fuel strong performance in Virginia's leisure-focused regional destinations.

"We're very pleased to see continued growth in visitor spending on the Eastern Shore, particularly at a pace that feels sustainable for our communities," said Megan Lawson, director of destination development for the Eastern Shore of Virginia Tourism Commission. "The growth in 2025 displays a healthy visitor economy that supports local businesses and jobs while preserving the character and quality of life that make the Eastern Shore such a special place to live and visit."

"Tourism on the Eastern Shore is truly a community effort," said Robert Sabbatini, executive director of both the Eastern Shore of Virginia Tourism Commission and Eastern Shore Chamber of Commerce. "These results reflect the work of hundreds of small businesses, attractions, restaurants, lodging properties, watermen and farmers, event organizers, local governments, and community organizations that collectively make the Shore a place people want to experience. We love where we live, and we're thrilled to share that love of the Shore with visitors while creating economic opportunity for the people who call it home."

VTC receives its annual economic impact data from Tourism Economics. The information is based on domestic and international visitor spending from per-person trips. Visitors included those who stayed overnight or who traveled more than 50 miles to the destination.

Detailed economic impact data and methodology are available at the VTC's website at www.vatc.org/research

Bay's underwater grasses increase

Submerged aquatic vegetation, one of the Chesapeake Bay's most important indicators of ecosystem health, increased by 7% in 2025, according to researchers at William & Mary's VIMS & Batten School.

The annual bay-wide aerial survey reported a total of 89,385 acres of underwater grasses in the Chesapeake Bay and its tidal tributaries, an increase of 6,134 acres from 2024. The results represent the highest bay-wide acreage recorded since 2018. The total is just shy of the Chesapeake Bay Watershed Agreement's 2030 interim goal of 90,000 acres and represents approximately 45% of the 196,600-acre long-term goal.

The results highlight the substantial progress made since underwater grass coverage reached historic lows in the 1980s and the challenges that remain to fully restore one of the bay's most valuable habitats.

"This year's survey demonstrates both that we're moving in the right direction and that there is a lot of complexity in Chesapeake Bay underwater grass communities," said Christopher J. Patrick, associate professor and director of the SAV Program at VIMS & the Batten School of Coastal & Marine Sciences. "We continue to see strong recovery in the main basin, particularly the saltier portions of the bay, with some setbacks experienced in localized freshwater areas. The mainstem recoveries are particularly encouraging, as they are indicative of watershed-level management yielding positive outcomes."

Much of the bay-wide increase was driven by the continued expansion of underwater grass beds in higher-salinity waters. The Polyhaline Zone, which includes the Bay's saltiest waters near its mouth, increased from 25,266 acres in 2024 to an estimated 28,142 acres in 2025, setting a new record for the second consecutive year. The moderately salty Mesohaline Zone expanded nearly 15%, from 33,033 acres in 2024 to an estimated 37,879 acres in 2025.

Researchers attribute much of that growth and the record-setting expansion of eelgrass to sustained year-over-year increases in water clarity in the lower bay. Recent work has demonstrated consistent improvements in water quality throughout the entire Chesapeake Bay mainstem over the past several years. The concurrent expansion of eelgrass meadows, both in size and into deeper waters, is consistent with those improvements. Similar processes are likely also driving the expansion of widgeon grass in the middle bay, which is still recovering from a crash due to exceptionally wet conditions in 2018.

Despite the overall increase, the survey revealed distinct declines in other portions of the Bay.

The Tidal Fresh Zone, a collection of spatially isolated upstream rivers and embayments, experienced a small decline, falling from 20,221 acres to an estimated 18,653 acres. Researchers observed particularly significant losses in several Virginia tributaries, including portions of the upper Rappahannock River. These declines were driven largely by reductions in Hydrilla verticillata, or water thyme, an invasive aquatic plant that has expanded and contracted across multiple river systems in recent years.

The slightly salty Oligohaline Zone remained relatively stable overall at just over 4,700 acres, with gains in several portions of the bay helping to offset losses in other regions.

"The bay is not a single ecosystem but a collection of many distinct habitats," Patrick said. "Each region responds differently to rainfall, water quality, salinity, and other environmental factors and stressors. What we observed this year is a reminder that bay-wide trends are really the sum of many regional stories."

Researchers say the contrasting patterns highlight the complexity of restoring underwater grasses across a 64,000-square-mile watershed. Geography, land use, rainfall, water clarity, and local environmental conditions all influence how underwater grass beds respond from year to year.

Underwater grasses provide essential habitat for fish, crabs, waterfowl, and countless other species. They also improve water quality by absorbing nutrients, stabilizing sediments, reducing shoreline erosion, sequestering carbon, and producing oxygen.

Because SAV responds quickly to changes in environmental conditions, scientists consider it one of the most sensitive and informative indicators of overall bay health.

Historical evidence suggests the Chesapeake Bay once supported between 200,000 and 600,000 acres of underwater grasses. By the time systematic monitoring began in 1984, coverage had fallen to approximately 39,000 acres.

Since then, underwater grass abundance has more than doubled, driven in part by nutrient reductions implemented throughout the watershed. The 2025 survey results suggest those investments continue to support recovery, even as climate change, land-use pressures, and localized environmental stressors create new challenges.

"We've seen that recovery is possible," Patrick said. "The gains we've documented over the last four decades reflect the benefits of cleaner water and sustained restoration efforts. Continuing that progress will require ongoing support of science, habitat conservation, and water-quality improvements throughout the watershed."

For more information about this year's results, including interactive maps, annual reports, and additional survey details, visit the VIMS & Batten School's SAV Program website at <https://www.vims.edu/research/units/programs/sav/>.

History to come alive in Onancock

Visitors are invited to step out of the present and into America's past when Shore History presents Living History Days on the Lawn at historic Ker Place in Onancock on Friday and Saturday, Oct. 9 and 10.

Created in recognition of America's 250th anniversary, this special two-day celebration will bring together nationally significant stories, compelling historical figures, Indigenous history, Revolutionary War interpretation, and traditional crafts.

With the VA250 Mobile Museum Experience also visiting Onancock, the weekend offers an ideal fall destination for families, history enthusiasts, and travelers from across the Eastern Shore, Delmarva, and Hampton Roads.

The celebration begins Friday, Oct. 9, when the VA250 Mobile Museum opens from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. in the Market Street Methodist Church parking lot adjacent to Ker Place.

The museum's signature exhibition, "Out of Many, One," is an interactive and immersive experience that explores Virginia's essential role in the founding of the United States. Through stories, artifacts and hands-on technology, it considers the many people and perspectives that have contributed to the American story.

On Friday evening at 5:30 p.m., the front steps of Ker Place will become the setting for one of the most famous moments in Revolutionary history. Patrick Henry will appear before the crowd to deliver his stirring call for liberty, bringing the words and convictions of the celebrated Virginia patriot to life.

Following the presentation, visitors are invited inside Ker Place for refreshments, Colonial music by Ampersand, and an opportunity to meet Mr. Henry. Guests will also receive a first look at Shore History's new "Give Me Liberty" exhibition, which examines the ideas, choices, and experiences surrounding the struggle for American independence.

Friday evening's presentation and reception are free, although donations are appreciated.

On Saturday, Oct. 10, the lawn at Ker Place will be transformed into a lively outdoor classroom from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Revolutionary War encampments and interpreters will demonstrate aspects of military life during the 18th century, while historical figures such as George Mason will help visitors understand the ideas that shaped Virginia and the emerging nation.

The program will also explore Indigenous history, culture, and continuity through presentations and conversations with Native representatives.

Open-fire cooking and demonstrations of blacksmithing, spinning, quilting, herbal remedies, and other traditional skills will offer a closer look at daily life during the Revolutionary era.

Rather than viewing history from a distance, guests will be able to walk through encampments, speak with interpreters, observe craftspeople at work, and encounter the past through sights, sounds, and stories.

Activities for children will make the day especially welcoming for families.

The VA250 Mobile Museum will remain open Saturday from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m., allowing visitors to experience both the statewide exhibition and the living-history activities during one memorable visit.

Admission to Saturday's program and the Mobile Museum is free.

Beyond the events at Ker Place, visitors can make a full weekend of their stay in Onancock. The historic waterfront town offers locally owned shops, galleries, and restaurants, along with walkable streets, beautiful architecture, and views of Onancock Creek.

Whether arriving for the day or staying overnight, guests will find plenty of opportunities to explore before and after the scheduled programs.

Ker Place, built in 1799, provides an especially fitting setting for this celebration. Located at 69 Market St., the Federal-period mansion is the headquarters of Shore History, the Eastern Shore of Virginia Historical Society.

Through its exhibits, collections, educational programs, and community events, Shore History preserves and shares the people, places, and stories that have shaped Virginia's Eastern Shore.

Living History Days on the Lawn offers more than a history lesson. It is an opportunity to consider the many experiences behind America's founding, discover Virginia's vital place in that story, and enjoy a fall weekend in one of the Eastern Shore's most inviting towns.

Living History Days is sponsored by the Orr Smith Foundation, the Marietta McNeill Morgan & Samuel Tate Morgan Jr. Trust, the Virginia Museum of History & Culture, and the Eastern Shore of Virginia Tourism Commission.

EASTERN SHORE POST/TED SHOCKLEY

A large crowd is expected Saturday, Sept. 12, at Cape Charles Central Park for its last concert of the season.

Buffett cover band performs Saturday in Central Park season finale concert

BY JIMMY SHOCKLEY

Eastern Shore Post

Organizers are going big in the final show of the 14th year of the Cape Charles Central park summer concert series

Captain Mike and the Shipwrecked, a well-known Jimmy Buffett tribute band, will begin its set at 7 p.m. Saturday in the town park.

"We're trying to turn this into a great, big party," said Linda Hitchings of Cape Charles Citizens for Central Park, the organization that runs the summer concert series.

Hitchings said the organization encourages attendees to this Saturday's concert to wear Buffett-inspired clothing, and be ready to send off the 2026 summer concert series on a high note.

Captain Mike and the Shipwrecked has never before performed in Cape Charles.

The nine-piece band's appearance in Cape Charles is the third-to-last stop on its summer 2026 tour, a journey that has seen the band perform as far north as Massachusetts and as far south as Florida.

The concert will be sponsored by Bay Creek Realty and will have nine vendors, eight food vendors and one face painting.

The Cape Charles summer concert series has continued to grow since its beginnings, organizers said.

Thanks to money generated from alcohol sales and local businesses sponsoring both the concert series and Citizens of Central Park, all concerts are free for the public to attend.

The money also allows for improvements and additions to the park that have been made over the years.

A playground has been added, the gazebo — which acts as the stage — has been improved, and the park is well-maintained all year.

The concert series draws attendees from the town of Cape Charles, but there are many who attend from as far as Richmond and Maryland.

Tourists visiting Cape Charles frequently also attend the various concerts — this year there have been 11 concerts, with the 12th coming Saturday.

None of these concerts this year or during previous years would have been possible without volunteer help and great support from the town and the Eastern Shore, Hitchings said.

"It's a lot of help from the community," she said.

Northampton's Renniah Rono (left) and Nandua's Danny Martinez-Chaves won the girls and boys races, respectively, in a cross-country meet on Wednesday.

Martinez-Chaves, Rono run away from XC field

On Wednesday, Sept. 9, Nandua's Danny Martinez-Chaves and Northampton's Renniah Rono were the boys and girls winners, respectively, in a cross country tri-meet at Nandua. It was the first meet of the season for all three teams.

Martinez-Chaves finished the 3.1-mile race in 19:31, 30 seconds ahead of 2nd place finisher Gage Ross of Arcadia. Rono held off Nandua's Chloe Bacchi, winning in 25:25, 9 seconds ahead of Bacchi.

Northampton swept the team competitions. Its boys won with 25 points, followed by Nandua (54) and Arcadia (57). Northampton's girls finished with 22 points, followed by Nandua (34) and Arcadia (72).

Top-five finishers for each team earned points:

BOYS — Northampton: Santino Seckers (3rd, 20:41), Jayden Talbott (4th, 21:06), Jacob Duffman (5th, 21:18), Walker Taylor (6th, 22:26), Carter Fox (7th, 22:35). Nandua:

Arcadia: Gage Ross (2nd, 20:01), Ezequiel Enriquez-Lopez (8th, 22:41), Shabi Perez-Gonzalez (10th, 22:53), Giosel Escalante (18th, 24:14), Macario Coj-Gonzalez (19th, 25:57).

GIRLS — Northampton: Renniah Rono (1st, 25:25), Scarlett Galimore (3rd, 25:49), Savana RuizVera (4th, 27:22), Sophie Taylor (5th, 27:27), Izabella CuevasRodriguez (9th, 30:27). Nandua: Chloe Bacchi (2nd, 25:34), Mariana Morales-Escalante (6th, 28:12), Grace Byelich (7th, 30:06), Rooke Johnson (8th, 30:20), Briseida Martinez (11th, 32:42). Arcadia: Evelyn Morales Perez (10th, 31:45), Abigail Richardson (14th, 35:40), Alondra Perez (15th, 39:58), Roxana Ortiz-Gomez (16th, 39:59), Daniela Larreinaga-Bertrand (17th, 42:52).

ICE in county imminent; supervisors ice town edge plan

BY JIMMY SHOCKLEY
Eastern Shore Post

Northampton County Supervisor Jon Dempster asked Northampton Sheriff David Doughty during the county’s Tuesday, Sept. 8, board of supervisors’ meeting about the recent federal Immigration and Customs Enforcement operations on the Eastern Shore.

“They (ICE) have not done any operations in Northampton County yet, but it will be happening at some point,” Doughty said.

He did not give a start date of when ICE operations will begin in the county.

Doughty reiterated that the Northampton County Sheriff’s Office is not involved in the operations of ICE and cannot interfere with the federal agency.

The sheriff’s office would only assist if it received a call to mediate a situation, Doughty said.

He said he recently met with the agency in charge and was told ICE agents will not be going into churches, schools, or businesses.

In his meeting with ICE, Doughty said no plans were discussed, but agents will be targeting those who have been previously deported or those who have committed crimes.

More review for town edge

Supervisors voted unanimously to return the town edge zoning proposal, intended to create more affordable housing, back to the planning commission for further review.

The recent proposal, which has been met with much opposition from the public, would allow for land owners of town edge zoned land to apply to have it rezoned to town edge residential, or TE-R, which would allow for more tightly clustered development around towns.

Multiple people spoke against the proposed ordinance at Tuesday’s meeting, citing concerns over lack of available groundwater, additional strain on EMS and police, the language of the ordinance not guaranteeing affordable housing will be built, and more.

The planning commission will have 60 days to review the ordinance, and the backtrack means that more public hearings will be held on the matter, said Dixon Leatherbury, chairman of the Northampton County Board of Supervisors.

County Administrator Matt Spuck said he is searching for similar counties that have experienced housing issues and solved them.

PUBLIC NOTICE BOARD OF EQUALIZATION For THE COUNTY OF NORTHAMPTON

Public notice is hereby given that the Board of Equalization for the County of Northampton will meet on the days hereafter listed for the purpose of hearing property owners who believe their real property assessment is inaccurate. Upon hearing such grievances, either verbal or written, the Board will give consideration TO EITHER INCREASE, DECREASE, OR AFFIRM such real estate assessment. The taxpayer or agent must provide a preponderance of evidence that the assessment of the property is not uniform with the assessments of other similar properties or that the property is assessed above or below its fair market value.

Appointments will be scheduled every 30 minutes to minimize waiting. To appear before the Board of Equalization, please call (757) 678-0446 ext. 504, between the hours of 9:00 A.M. and 5:00 P.M., Monday thru Friday, to request an application. Meetings of the Board to hear objections will be held in the conference room on the second floor of the County Administration Building at 16404 Courthouse Road, Eastville, Virginia, 23347. The dates and times are:

TRUSTEE’S SALE
3237 BROADWATER ROAD
EXMORE, VA 23350

In execution of a Credit Line Deed of Trust, dated July 18, 2025, in the original principal amount of $40,000, recorded in the Clerk’s Office of the Northampton County Circuit Court as instrument 250001229, in the original principal balance of $40,000, undersigned Substitute Trustee will offer for sale at public auction in front of the Circuit Court for Northampton County, located at 5229 The Hornes, Eastville, VA, 23347 on the 18th day of September 2026 at 9:30 A.M., the premises described in the aforementioned Credit Line Deed of Trust, commonly known as 3237 Broadwater Road, Exmore, Virginia, and more particularly described as follows:

ALL THAT CERTAIN LOT OR PARCEL OF LAND LOCATED NEAR EXMORE, NORTHAMPTON COUNTY, VIRGINIA, CONTAINING 1.01 ACRES, MORE OR LESS, BEING DESIGNATED AS PARCEL “B-1” ON A CERTAIN PLAT ENTITLED, “THIS PARCEL OF LAND WAS SURVEYED AT THE REQUEST OF W. W. PRETTYMAN, LOCATED NEAR EXMORE, FRANKTOWN DISTRICT, NORTHAMPTON COUNTY, VIRGINIA,” DATED NOVEMBER 24, 1980, MADE BY GRANVILLE F. HOGG, C.L.S., WHICH SAID PLAT IS OF RECORD IN THE CLERK’S OFFICE FOR THE CIRCUIT COURT OF NORTHAMPTON COUNTY, VIRGINIA, IN DEED BOOK 207, PAGE 436, TO WHICH PLAT REFERENCE IS HEREBY MADE FOR A MORE ACCURATE AND PARTICULAR DESCRIPTION OF THE LOT HEREIN CONVEYED. SAID LOT OR PARCEL OF LAND BEING BOUNDED GENERALLY ON THE NORTH BY STATE ROUTE 652; ON THE EAST BY PARCEL “B-2”; ON THE SOUTH BY PARCEL “B-3”; AND ON THE WEST BY PARCEL “C” AND LOT 7, ALL AS SHOWN ON SAID PLAT.

TERMS OF SALE: The property will be sold “as is” without representation or warranty of any kind and subject to environmental or other conditions, restrictions, easements, rights of way, and agreements of record affecting same, if any, and subject to all matters of record taking priority over the Deed of Trust. Substitute Trustee shall have no obligation to deliver possession of the property or any other obligation as to the premises. A deposit of $4,000.00 or ten percent of the sale price, whichever is lower, in the form of cash, cashier’s check, or certified check, is required at the time of auction. Balance of the purchase price to be paid in cash within fourteen days of sale, time being of the essence. In the event of default by the successful bidder, the entire deposit shall be forfeited and applied to the costs and expenses of sale and Substitute Trustee’s fee according to the Code of Virginia.

All other public charges or assessments, including water/sewer charges to be prorated through date of sale; those incurred after the sale date, and all other costs incident to settlement to be paid by the purchaser. In the event taxes or any other public charges have been advanced, a credit will be due to the seller, to be adjusted from the date of sale at the time of settlement. Sale is subject to post-sale confirmation that the borrower did not file for protection under the U.S. Bankruptcy Code prior to the sale as well as to post-sale confirmation of the status of the loan with the loan servicer including, but not limited to, determination of whether the borrower entered into any repayment agreement, reinstated or paid off the loan prior to the sale or whether other legal impediment to title exists. In any such event, the sale shall be null and void, and the Purchaser’s sole remedy, in law or equity, shall be the return of the deposit without interest. Additional terms may be announced at the time of sale.
